

Housing authority votes no renewal for Belmore's contract

by Brad Parmenter

The Wilmington Housing Authority voted 3-2 on Tuesday night not to renew the contract of its current executive director, Ella Belmore. Belmore had been hired on a trial basis of a year, with the possibility of two or more to follow.

Board member Al Meegan said that he was "very uncomfortable with the current executive director." He cited Belmore's lack of timeliness with minutes and inability to complete, "things we as the housing authority should be doing."

"I need these things to be completed in order to serve as a commissioner on this board," said Meegan.

Chief among the things mentioned as still left undone was the securing of deed now held by the town for land on Houghton Road. The board had hoped to build a "689" house for autistic children on the site.

The town was willing to turn over the deed to housing for the sum of $1. Belmore did not secure the deed, according to the board.

Belmore says the deed was secured. "We were given the land at Town meeting," said Belmore. Town council never completed the transfer paperwork. It has been there ever since.

Belmore said that once they were given the land, they hired an engineer to see if the land was safe to build on. "We paid a sizable bill for that. Executive Office of Communities and Development was not happy with the parcel of land or the high price tag that came with it," said Belmore in an interview.

Meegan had said at the meeting the night before that he felt that the housing authority should have the deed anyway, so they could solicit other funds. Belmore responded by saying there were no funds available. "The board member who was asking me about this the other night (Meegan) doesn't know what he was talking about. He wasn't on the board then," she said.

Also not completed, according to the board, was the hiring of an impartial party to take notes. At a past meeting according to minutes, Belmore was instructed by a directive of the board to hire someone to take the minutes. As of yet, Belmore hasn't completed the task. "As you know, the hiring of someone to do the minutes falls upon the executive director, said Belmore, I have not done so because of the controversy on this board."

The controversy stems from Meegan. He had a tenant that had a Section Eight certificate.

Under Section Eight, a landlord receives money from the housing authority to make up the difference between what his tenant can pay and what the rent is actually worth. Since Meegan was to serve on a board that would be paying him, there was a possible conflict of interest, according to Meegan. Housing and Urban Development was called in to determine if there was a conflict. They said as long as the certificate was transferred to another town or his resident was terminated, Meegan could serve. The certificate was withheld by Belmore pending a HUD ruling, according to Meegan. Despite HUD documents ordering the release of the certificate, Belmore held it. The move forced Meegan either to resign or initiate termination of his tenant. Meegan chose the latter option so he could continue to serve. Before this, Meegan had proposed the firing of Belmore. He says he thought this was possible because of legal opinion received from EOCD. It was not and Belmore was reinstated. The board voted last night not to continue her contract, dismaying board member and Belmore supporter Joan Sadowski, who said, "She (Belmore) has been tried on the front pages of the Town Crier and the Merrimack Valley Advertiser based upon lies and exaggeration. She has come through it and proven she is a strong woman." Board member Dan Gillis was overheard worrying about pending litigation against the board and the newspapers for the move.

Belmore agrees with the statements made by Sadowski. "There untruths published by reporters and board members who weren't even at meetings," she said.

Belmore wasn't surprised by the vote. "I knew I didn't have the vote of the board," she said "I always supported the chair (Tom Siracusa). I never felt I had his support."

Belmore's contract will run out on October 31.

McCoy to pay $25,000, settling case with Cain

The Cain-McCoy case was finally settled outside a Cambridge court room on Monday. Former selectman Michael McCoy will pay $25,000 to Selectman Bob Cain, and Cain will drop criminal charges of assault and battery against McCoy.

Upon receipt of a $25,000 settlement, Cain will instruct state prosecutors to drop charges of assault and battery against McCoy.

Cain said that his attorneys had been prepared to go forward with the criminal case, and that McCoy's attorney offered the settlement.

The case stemmed from an incident in Wilmington Town Hall on the night of November 13, 1989. A selectman's meeting had just concluded, and on the way out, McCoy called Cain aside. After a brief discussion, a fight broke out, and Cain suffered a broken nose and other injuries. Cain later underwent corrective surgery for the broken nose, and had a tooth extracted as well.

Cain was awarded $17,000 in a civil case in Woburn District Court in April. That $17,000 is to be paid off by the $25,000 settlement.

The 33-month case had become an ordeal for all parties. "It's been a long time for me and my family," said Cain.

The fight had occupied the political spotlight in Wilmington for nearly three years. Four months after the incident, McCoy lost a bid for re-election to the Board of Selectmen. He sought to run again in 1991 but withdrew from the race after his indictment on the charges brought by Cain.

Auctioning the assets

The physical assets of the American Traveller went up for auction on Tuesday. A small crowd bid on desks, computers and copying machines, with good bargains on many items. Richard Cohn of Beacon Liquidators was the auctioneer. The travel agency, of which Supt. of School William Fay was president, was seized by a bank on July 1. The business has a federal tax lien of over $90,000, according to a listing in Banker & Tradesman.

DeRoeve is acting supt.

by Brad Parmenter

Until August 26 or until present Supt. William Fay returns, school business manager Peter DeRoeve has been appointed acting superintendent of schools.

According to DeRoeve the position isn't new to him. Fay had left him in charge during absences when it was necessary for Fay to leave town. He is not worried about taking the helm now. "It's only for a short period," he said, "I just hope to do my best."

What if Fay doesn't return by August 26? DeRoeve said that would be up to the school committee. "They (school committee) have meetings on the 12th and 26th, after that I don't know," he said.

DeRoeve said he enjoys his present job and is still under contract. He has no plans to apply for the open position. "I've been here for 17 years. I like it," he said.

His position as business manager is second in command only to that of superintendent.

About his future as acting superintendent, DeRoeve said, "I'll know more after the first few days."

The last TJHS honor roll...

Last week, there was a milestone quietly passed. The appearance of the final marking period honor roll for Tewksbury Junior High School will be the last one ever.

No, it isn't that Tewksbury Junior High students have suffered an I.Q. implosion, and the roof didn't cave in while crews were repairing the school roof.

Instead, beginning in September, the junior high school will become the John W. Wynn Middle School.

Tewksbury Junior-High School is no more.

AARP chapter building steam on health care issue

A chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) which started in North Andover has become basically a Wilmington chapter. Doris Nash, the president of the chapter, said that the group has mostly Wilmington residents.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, September 8, 7:30 p.m. at the North Andover Senior Citizens Center. The guest speaker will be an AARP representative who will present information on "Health Care America." This is the AARP's health plan that has been compiled over the last three years, combining the best features of many national health plans from around the world. This plan will be presented to all AARP Chapters for discussion and evaluation before finally sending it to Congress later this year.

Anyone over age 50 is welcome to attend and guests are invited. Light refreshments will be served. There is ample parking at the Center. For more information call Doris at 658-2938 or Marcia at 658-2917.

AARP officers

Serving as interim officers and committee chairpersons for the recently formed Wilmington Area Evening Chapter of AARP are (l-r) Doris Nash, president; Ed Nash, vice president; Newell Bearse, treasurer; Marcia Bearse, public relations and membership; Eunice Case, hospitality (all of Wilmington) and Edith Dawley, secretary (of Tewksbury).

YMCA starting after-school day care

The Eastern Mass Family YMCA in Reading has started registration for the after school and kindergarten child care for the fall. These programs will start the first day of school and run through the school year.

These programs are designed to provide recreational and educational activities that stimulate growth as well as provide the security and safety of a homelike setting. Special effort is made to develop a program that is tailored to meet the individual needs of your child. Children will participate in games, crafts, clubs, field trips and quiet homework time.

The after school program is for grades k through six with children being supervised in age appropriate groups. This program operates every day that school is in session from school dismissal until 6 p.m. as well as most holidays. Children must attend a minimum of two days and transportation is available.

Marianne Conner is the director of the program and has been with the YMCA for eight years. "The after school program offers children a safe place to go after school where they are accepted and feel at home. Moms and dads don't have to worry that their children are not having fun because there is always something for them to do."

The kindergarten program is directed by Christine Rogers who has an Early Childhood degree from North Adams State and has worked at the YMCA for three years. This program operates both A.M. and P.M. sessions with care beginning at 7 a.m. and continuing until 6 p.m. The kindergarten program aims to supplement the children's learning experience at school through a number of activities that develop body, mind and spirit.

Both of these programs operate at the YMCA in Reading, and are licensed by the Office for Children to ensure quality and commitment to the children. The after school program runs from school dismissal until 6 p.m.

Those families interested in registering for either program should contact the YMCA at 944-7989. All children starting in September must have a doctor's physical and immunization forms on file.

Financial assistance is available through the YMCA Access program which is based on family size and income level. Families who are eligible for DSS contracted slots on Voucher Day care should contact Marianne Conner at the YMCA at 944-7989.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

AN IRA FOR YOUR YOUNGSTER

It's hard to get a teenager interested in saving for retirement. Truth is, any amount that goes into a tax deferred account with years in which to grow and grow is going to increase to an outrageous sum with little or no effort on the part of its owner.

Keep in mind that any earned income qualifies for an Individual Retirement account, so if Junior earns money on his paper route, or Sister is a baby sitter, the money can be socked away. And the earlier they start saving, the better. And if young people just starting out can't afford to do without $2,000 of a meager income, it's perfectly legal to use money they're given as a gift, or even a loan.

Here's the argument: If a 15 year old puts away $2000 a year for 10 years, then lets the money sit there earning eight percent a year, that person is going to save $659,756 by age 65. If he keeps stashing away $2,000 a year, the fund will reach $1.45 million!

We'll show you why an IRA really works. Talk to the tax and finance people at Bonnie Noel of Wilmington was one of several models who took part in a fashion show at Emphasis Hair Designs in Tewksbury on Monday night. The fashion show was a combined effort of Emphasis and the Fashion Bug of Wilmington, with proceeds going to the Salvation Army to help feed hungry children. Both models here study with the LaFemina School of Modeling.

Artists reward Senior Center

Tewksbury Memorial High artists paid back a kindness this week, by putting on a free art exhibit at the Senior Center.

The TMHS students, all recipients of Arts Lottery scholarships and 1992 graduates of the high school, put on the art show in the function room of the Senior Center on Monday night.

The art show was organized by Jeremy Brothers, Jason Nutile, Lori Salmeri and Dana Pacheco, and demonstrated various media by the students. Many of the projects were done while still students of the high school, and the exhibits were well received.

Also taking part were John Zipps, Ann Kicza, Ed Moers, Mike Pilato and Ed Moers.

Homeowner nailed by builder of new deck

by Brad Parmenter

If you are a homeowner in the Tewksbury-Wilmington area and would like to get that deck rebuilt for the summer, beware.

Cathy Tremonti of Wilmington learned the hard way that the contractor with the cheapest estimate isn't always the best one for the job. Her $2800 deck became a $5400 nightmare.

The contractor she hired was DeFlippo Construction of Wilmington. She hired them because their estimate was the lowest of several contractors she looked at. It was a mistake she would live to regret.

Upon investigation the Town Crier learned from Mass. Dept. of Public Safety that in order to construct a deck on a residential property before the July 1 law took effect, a contractor had to possess a construction supervisor's license. According to the agency, neither of the DeFlippo brothers possessed such a license.

The residential law of the past required that a homeowner secure the building permit. Mrs. Tremonti wasn't feeling well and asked her contractor to do it for her. The DeFlippo brothers didn't have a license to build or insurance and couldn't have obtained a permit. They started work without a building permit. Without the permit, Tremonti was nervous and wouldn't allow work to continue.

Upon examining the work that had been done, she had several complaints. The deck had been built too large to fit in the original forms. The new forms had in fact, been hand dug, according to Mrs. Tremonti. The new "forms" were only holes, without cement, 12 inches in depth, instead of 4 feet as required by law.

The deck had not been lag bolted to the house and had been supported by loose wooden blocks resting on the top of a central air conditioning unit under the deck.

"It would have collapsed during the first snow," said Tremonti. The old deck which had been destroyed by carpenter ants, was left a few feet away from the new work, where it could contaminate the new deck. When she attempted to fire Paul DeFlippo, he threatened her, she said.

Mrs. Tremonti took Paul DeFlippo to court for the threats. She went in without legal representation and the charges were dropped when she was unable to present a clear case with sufficient evidence.

"He said, 'You're nothing but a woman' and told me to get back in the house," she said. Tremonti said Paul began to steal items belonging to the Tremonti's out of their garage, so she then called the police. Officer Charlie Fiore responded and Tremonti alleges he allowed the theft to continue until he spoke to her husband. Fiore then instructed Mr. Tremonti, who has emphysema to unload his things from DeFlippo's truck, she alleges. Mrs. Tremonti said she couldn't believe the way her husband was treated. "He's not even supposed to lift 5 pounds," she said.

At the time of this incident Paul DeFlippo wasn't licensed to drive the truck and had two outstanding warrants against him for motor vehicle violations, according to information provided to the Town Crier. He was arrested for the warrants two weeks ago, weeks after Mrs. Tremonti alleges the initial incident was logged by police, and later released.

A new law that went into effect on July 1 of this year and applies to all work started on or after that date, seems to have been written expressly for the Tremonti case. Unfortunately, the work in this case is not protected because the work was started in June.

The new law has some very important provisions that any homeowner wishing to hire a contractor should know.

A "homeowner" is someone who, under the law, has a one to four unit building which the owner must occupy.

A contractor now must be not only licensed but registered with the Home Improvement Contractor Registration Office in Boston. Their registration number should be on all advertising, contracts and permits. If you don't see a number, ask to see a registration certificate. Once the contractor has been hired, all contracts for over $1000 must be written.

Contracts must contain: complete identification of everyone involved and their registration numbers; this includes subcontractors. The contract must also contain a complete description of the work to be done, completion schedule and a final cost agreement. It must say how and when the contractor is to be paid and it must include signatures. A consumer must be guaranteed by the contract the right to cancel the contract within three days of when it is signed. Contracts must inform the owner of warranties and must also inform the owner that the contractor must be registered with the state. Warnings not to sign any contract with blank spaces must be included.

Finally, in almost complete contradiction with the old law, contractors under contract must be required by the document to obtain all licenses and permits to build. Previously this had been the owner's responsibility. If the owner obtains the permit, it will limit his case against a bad contractor.

If an owner has seen all of these things in writing, it is safe to sign the contract. An executed copy should be delivered to the owner before any work begins, however.

Under the new law, a homeowner who feels wronged, now has some recourse.

An owner may apply for arbitration with a state approved arbiter. If the contractor flees or becomes bankrupt and can't pay a decision, it may still be paid by a fund called the Residential Contractors Guaranty fund. This fund is paid for by registered contractors. Any award taken from the fund must be reimbursed by the offending contractor.

The final thing to remember is do not get your financing through the contractor. Under the new law, the contractor is not allowed to lend you the money himself or to act as an agent or in association with any lending institution if the collateral is your house. If you are using your home as collateral, the contractor cannot force you to use a bank of his choosing. Under the new law the lender you choose is completely up to your discretion.

This law was established to protect homeowners against a rising number of complaints. Tom Dewey, policy planning director at the Executive Office of Consumer Affairs, said that Tremonti's case is all but new.

"Home contractors are the complaints we receive most; next to used cars," said Dewey. "There are good contractors out there, he said, this law is intended to weed out the bad ones."

What about Mrs. Tremonti? She has had her deck reconstructed by a reputable contractor, but she will be paying for her mistake for a long time.

"I worked three jobs for 17 years to pay for my house," she said, now I'll be 60 before this is all paid for."

Mrs. Tremonti said she feared for herself and her family by coming forward with this story. Her final reason was plain and simple.

"Maybe it will help someone in town," she said.

Questions about the new law can be directed to the Executive Office of Consumer Affairs, (617) 727-7780.

If you are a contractor wishing to register, or wish to file a complaint against a contractor, for work started after July 1, contact Home Improvement Contractor Registration Director, (617) 727-8598.

Opinion.....

by Kevin John Sowyrda

The Town Crier has learned that Wilmington Superintendent of Public Schools William Fay, whose exact whereabouts has been in question for the past week, left behind him a tangled web of financial dealings which many contend has contributed to the superintendent's exodus.

The Internal Revenue Service has attached a lien for back-due taxes on Fay's now defunct business, American Traveler, Inc. The IRS contends that Fay's company failed to pay federal unemployment and withholding taxes and owes the government $90,655, as first reported in Banker and Tradesman, a leading financial publication in Boston.

Fay's business assets, located at 35 Lowell Street, Wilmington, were up for public auction on Tuesday as part of a secured party sale managed by Beacon Liquidators.

The Town Crier has also learned, from a highly placed source in the school system, that after consultation with legal counsel the school committee has suspended Fay's paycheck pending verification that the superintendent's sick leave is legitimate. Fay's name was deleted from the school system payroll warrant sent to Town Hall this week. Fay informed school committee members in an August 3 memo that he is on sick leave due to "elective surgery." It was also learned that Fay contacted the school department on Friday, August 7 by telephone and dictated a statement to the press, which Roman House officials opted not to release.

(Fay contacted the Town Crier from out of state on Tuesday morning; see related story. A school official told the Town Crier on Tuesday that Fay sent notification this week that "he was feeling better" and would return to Wilmington on August 19. The school official did not Fay's present whereabouts.)

Fay had recently failed in his attempts to secure a new contract with the school committee, a set-back which seemed to break down communications between school chief and committee. Interviews with key players in the negotiation process reveal that a stumbling block was the revelation that Fay had not been forthcoming with the committee regarding his application for another post in the Palm Beach, Florida public school system.

"He said he was out for personal reasons," said a member of the committee referring to an incident last June when he was called for a job reference for Fay by the Palm Beach schools. When the committee member confronted Fay on the issue, the superintendent reportedly denied that he had been an applicant for another job and that his absence at that time "was attributed to a family matter."

This story seems to have its center of gravity at American Traveler, "Fay's baby" an old friend called it, which Fay purchased from his friend Dave Gagnon. A Fay confidant, who asked not to be named, said that Fay had overextended himself and that the business, a popular local travel agency, had become "a ball and chain around his neck" that Fay was fighting to rescue from failure.

Bill Fay is not a blow-in without local credentials, a fact which contributes to the intense public interest surrounding his story. Fay's a townie boy, an educator by trade who worked in the Tewksbury public schools while serving as a member of the Wilmington School Committee. He fatefully learned about one side of the table, perhaps knowing that his destiny would eventually take him to the other side years later.

As ironic as it may seem today, Fay came on board in 1989 "as the healer of past wounds, ready to ease the disruption and pain from the past superintendent," said Tony Accardi, former school committee chairman and a key Fay supporter. Accardi said the superintendent's mysterious leave is "out of character" because Fay was always "a stable type of guy who you wouldn't expect to do this type of thing without good reason."

Even in light of recent events, Accardi said Fay "was absolutely the right man at the time for the position." Said Accardi, "I know that a lot of people are second guessing this guy right now; but I think that's too easy. I'm standing behind his commitment to kids."

Some school committee members have privately questioned if Fay will return at all. But the superintendent will probably reappear, with his contract as one incentive. It affords a sick and vacation time buyback clause presently worth between $14,000 and $17,000; a sum forfeited if Fay is found in contract violation, which would be failure to provide at least 120 days notice of resignation.

A doctor's note and the most original explanation in the world may still save Fay's severance.

But what about his reputation?

Briefly in Politics . . .

...The Barbara Hildt for Congress campaign is showing off what they call convincing evidence for Democrats that their candidate is the only Democrat who can retain the sixth district seat. A poll of over 500 voters shows that Hildt would defeat either of the two Republicans in the race, but the incumbent Congressman Nick Mavroules (D) would lose to both G.O.P. hopefuls.

...Republican state senate hopeful Jay Gaffney reportedly raised over $5,000 Sunday evening from his fundraiser at the Rolling Green Host Hotel in Andover. Gaffney, hoping to succeed retiring Senator Pat McGovern, said he hosted over 100 supporters, including Governor William F. Weld and fifth district congressional candidates Mike Conway and Paul Cronin. Gaffney is waging an aggressive Republican primary fight against Billerica State Representative Brion Cangiamila, who just retained well-known Republican activist Sandra Kereley as his field coordinator.

...But what will Pat McGovern be doing in 1994? Pundits are referencing a front page Boston Globe article last week where McGovern spewed her usual brand of "they don't care about people" venom at the Republican administration. Many believe the scathing article was another sign that McGovern is gearing-up for a challenge to Governor Bill Weld in 1994, and Democratic activists say her campaign manager may be none other than Paul Tsongas.

Certainly by '94, McGovern's solid record as a tax-and-spend-us-to-death-1960's-in-love-with-deficits-Democrat will be forgotten and forgiven.

...WCTV, Wilmington's own version of CNN, begins its special coverage of political candidates this week with an in depth, if I do say so myself, interview with Alexander "Sandy" Tennant, Republican candidate for congress. Tennant was interviewed by this writer and Wilmington's answer to Tom Brokaw, WCTV Anchor J.T. Turner.

GOSH! THE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT JUST DISAPPEARS....THEN HE'S BACK AGAIN.... LIKE A REAL-LIFE CHESHIRE CAT... AND THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE IS A LOT LIKE THE MAD HATTER'S TEA PARTY. I THINK LEWIS CARROLL WROTE THEIR SCRIPT!

* INSIDE JOKE... AKA "SMOKE-FREE ZONES"

25 years ago

The August 17, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Gillette Safety Razor Company of Boston, which had been seeking for months for a site for its $2.8 million packaging and warehousing plant, announced that it had an option on 140 acres of land in the Lowell Junction area of Andover, owned by John Kay and John Cronin.

The front page featured a view of the new home of Volkswagen to be erected in Wilmington in the Tambone-Barbo Industrial Park at a projected cost of $5 million.

Jay Tighe, manager of the Wilmington Tradesmen Baseball Team, was pictured accepting the trophy as manager of the championship Wilmington Team. The trophy was presented by Red Butland, commissioner for the Carling League.

Recognized as most valuable player on the team, Jeff Williamson was pictured accepting his trophy from Jack Eydenberg, a teacher at Burlington High School.

According to Nosey Nancy,

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 354 was planning a paper drive for the fall. Leaders Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Foley would be happy if readers would save papers for them.

Also according to Nancy, Fred Laffin of Veranda Avenue had returned to Thule, Greenland aboard the Coast Guard icebreaker Edisto. The ship was on a five month deployment in the Arctic.

Town Crier Publisher Larz Neilson and Mrs. Joan Bachman were pictured cleaning mushrooms, prior to freezing.

A 1966 graduate of WHS, Paul Reichel of Mystic Avenue was awarded a scholarship by the University of Mass. Paul was scheduled to major in arboriculture and park management.

Scotty's Bakery and Restaurant in the plaza offered special dinners with coffee or tea, pudding or Jello for 99 cents.

Elia's Market offered steamer clams at 29 cents a pound; milk, half a gallon for 45 cents and bananas, 10 cents a pound.

The August 11, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

A two alarm fire on August 7 resulted in extensive damage to an abandoned home at 931 Andover Street, near the Lowell-Tewksbury line. The blaze, which caused extensive damage to the upper floors of the two and a half story house, was considered suspicious and was under investigation. The house was listed as owned by James and Morris Wiseman, who had not been located.

The town hadn't heard the last of the proposed water treatment plant voters shot down at a special town meeting in June. The town owed $721,687.04 for work done on the project before voters decided to abandon it. The town's consulting firm, Camp Dresser and McKee was owed $717,408.44 in design fees for plans, permits, specifications and contract documents for the plant. Town Counsel Charles Zaroulis was owed $2,833.60 for legal fees while James Burns Jr., was owed $1,445 for appraisal of a parcel of land on River Road.

Congressman Edward Markey opened his campaign headquarters at 2136 Main Street, Saturday, August 14.

Wang Labs reported a 23 percent increase in revenues for the fourth quarter and a 30 percent increase in earnings.

Peter Georgopoulos of Foster Road and Jesse Labonte of Whipple Road were accepted as students by Bunker Hill Community College.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

On behalf of the campers and staff of Camp Wildwood, I would like to extend thanks to the great people of Wilmington for making it a very enjoyable summer for the children with special needs.

Recreation Director Ron Swasey was very accommodating as usual and special thanks should be given to Ginny Lemos who went out of her way to fulfill our every need.

Paul Bova and the Ametek Good Neighbor Fund donated some much needed new equipment. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lepore and family donated the brand new hockey and baseball games.

A special thanks is extended to our friends of the Wilmington Public Buildings Custodial Union for the 15th year they have sent the camp to Canobie Lake Park and have sponsored the end of the year cookout. The great residents of Hathaway Acres donated the funds to supply the bus for Canobie Lake Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken McCowan and the Kiwanis Club sponsored a fantastic pool day and cookout. Also, the Kiwanis Club sponsored the trip to the Franklin Park Zoo. The Wilmington Rotary Club donated the trophies awarded to deserving campers at our awards night. George Kelley and the Knights of Columbus were very generous in sponsoring our Family Night dinner. (For a guy from Charlestown George knows his way around Italian food preparation). The Wilmington/ Tewksbury Elks again backboned our Superstars Competition.

Even out-of-towners made this year special. Cheryl Sawyer of Oakdale Florist of Tewksbury donated juice and balloons for our special days at camp, and Lori Ann's Donut Shop of Charlestown donated breakfast after our overnight. The North Reading Dairy Queen donated a huge ice cream cake for our special "Birthday Day." The Wheelock family kept us in cakes and cookies all year.

A very special thanks goes to Principal Bob Arsenault, Rosa Sadowski, Joe Calvert and Ken Roberts who went very much "out of their way" to seek our comfort at the Wildwood School.

On a personal note, although I now live in Derry, N.H., I still consider myself a "Wilmingtonite" and it is with pride that I relate to the people of New Hampshire the giving nature and special virtues of the residents of the great town of Wilmington, MA.

Thank you,
Bill Simmons
Director of Camp Wildwood

Dear Larz:

I would like to thank you for the fast service of sending the Town Crier to my new home. After 32 years in Wilmington I've sold my home due to health reasons and moved to North Andover to be closer to my family.

I'm the "bad lady" who reported the previous conditions at the old animal shelter in 1985, and I am so glad I did.

I would also like to thank Ellen Davis, our wonderful dog officer for all the kindness she has shown me. Not too many people know how long her day is. I've known her to work long days and sometimes late at night, and she never refuses a call.

Wilmington does not realize they have one of the finest animal control officers. My hat is off to you, Ellen. Keep up the good work. I for one know what a wonderful and caring person you are.

I will miss Wilmington, and the wonderful fire department that has responded so many times for our family.

Much love and God Bless.

Mary G. Tedesco

Love is worth waiting for — and a long wait it was

by Brad Parmenter

Some things in life are worth waiting for. No two people know that more than Barbara and Gunnar Ek of Woburn. Through two spouses each and almost 60 years of waiting, their love endured.

On August 18, the Eks will celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary.

Gunnar met Barbara the year she graduated from Woburn High School. That was either 1933 or 1934, she has trouble remembering back that far. One thing she can remember is Gunnar.

"He used to be out playing ball and I would see him," she said. From their first meeting in 1934, till next they met, in 1982, Gunnar admits much time passed.

"It was almost fifty years till I saw her again, he says. "She had two husbands before me," he says feigning hurt. Winking as a big smile crosses his face he says, "I was third choice." Both have been married and widowed twice.

Mrs. Ek has been sitting quietly listening to Gunnar's kidding, but now she sees her chance. She smiles a mischievous grin and says, "You were the third — wait until you see the fourth." Her first husband was "Uno" Carlson. Roy Brogan was her second.

The jokes go back and forth between Barbara and Gunnar, each one almost knows what the other will say and comes up with an equally devilish reply. Both, however, remember where they met.

"We met in a funeral parlor," Gunnar says with a giggle. Their chance meeting was in 1986. "We started going together and got married in the same year," says Gunnar. "August 18, 1986," he says thoughtfully. "Good thing you're here, Barbara tells this reporter, he might have forgotten."

When all the kidding stops, Barbara is quick to point out that she has a house in Wilmington as well. "I still have a house right down on Eames Street," she says. Barbara lived there for some 50 years. She even dug the ditch for her water line for town water.

Mrs. Ek then turns to a bookshelf full of photographs and begins to take them down one by one to introduce her grandchildren. "I'm almost a great-great-grandmother," she says with pride.

There are also photos taken from many trips. Mrs. Ek is anxious to get back to Alabama where many of her relatives are located. Mr. Eck went back to Sweden, his homeland, in 1988. He took Barbara with him.

He once again smiles and kids Barbara. "She was there for three months and never learned a word," he says. Barbara agrees with him. "I would just sit and watch I didn't understand a word," Gunnar smiles and says, "Oh, you weren't that bad." It's hard to believe watching the couple that they have only been married for six years. Gunnar watches Barbara play with a stuffed animal and says with a smile, "she's entering her second childhood."

When they are together, Barbara, 76, and Gunnar, 85, seem to be having the time of their lives no matter what their age.

As we wind down our Olympic summer, it is time for our annual look at some of the lighter moments on the environmental front.

Apparently the Not in My Back Yard (NIMBY) syndrome has been taken to new depths in some resort areas in the great State of Maine, whose motto is — "The Way Life Should Be." Nimby has been changed to Not in My Bath Room (NIMBR).

It seems that some residents in the President's summer home town have locked their bathroom doors to accidental tourists on the verge of having an accident. The town voted against constructing a public toilet facility. It was unclear whether they felt such a facility would overload their sewage disposal system or their tax rate. I would suggest that it is probably the latter. Restaurants were then forced to prohibit tourists who were not customers from using their bathrooms.

If money was the problem, the town could finance the public toilet facility by charging for its use. I am sure that parents with two whining kids would pay anything to use a toilet when an emergency arises.

These NIMBR towns have an attitude problem and they don't even belong to the MWRA.

So when you visit, leave your money, but don't leave anything else behind.

A little closer to home, the town of Chelmsford is having a problem with beavers. Given a free hand, the beavers have turned swamps into lakes and meadows into swamps. Some animal rights groups may think this is just Mother Nature at work and no harm is being done. The local water department, however, doesn't think this is cute.

Beaver dams have flooded the area around two of the town's wells. The odor of decaying vegetation has fouled the air and the water. The water department received so many complaints about the taste and smell of the water, it had to take one well out of service immediately and use the second well only as a backup. The town's 500 thousand dollar investment in its water supply has been jeopardized by protected beavers.

The local Bucky Beaver Brigade responds to calls for breaking the dams by offering to give vasctomies to the male beavers. Has anyone checked to see if the hole in the ozone layer is centered over Chelmsford? This will obviously not solve the current problem and one would have to seriously question this attempt at beaver birth control.

If we are not careful, humans will soon be an endangered species. Let's give a "dam" about humans, not just beavers.

Cuoco completes courses at Kent State

Woburn High School's Al Cuoco, who lives on Birch Road in Wilmington, is one of 70 teachers who recently completed the Institute for Secondary Mathematics and Computer Science Education at Kent State University.

In order to improve the way mathematics and computer science are presented in classrooms, high school teachers from across the country spent six weeks on the Kent Campus during two consecutive summers pursuing in-depth training in either computer science, new areas of math, or the use of computers in teaching math.

The computer's international faculty has exposed teachers of high school math and computer science to current information and state of the art technology, as well as the most effective means of incorporating computers into the classroom. The program was intended to give students the academic foundation and motivation needed to pursue careers in math, computers and science.

Started with a $1.5 million grant from the National Science Foundation, the Institute was run by Kent's department of mathematics and computer science, the College of Arts and Sciences, the college of Education and the College of Continuing Studies.

Cuoco, who earned a bachelor's degree from Boston College and master's and doctoral degrees from Brandeis University, has taught for 23 years.

I wouldn't be sitting here talking about my doctor if he hadn't performed remarkably. In fact, I wouldn't be sitting here at all.

Susan Callahan is thankful to be alive.

Bleeding from the throat, she and her husband feared the worst when she arrived at the New England Memorial Hospital Emergency Room. But within 1½ hours, Susan went from being at death's door to being a very lucky, stabilized patient.

Dr. José Marcal performed an emergency endoscopic procedure that enabled him not only to diagnose a burst blood vessel but, remarkably, to treat the life-threatening condition right in the emergency room. Dr. Marcal's quick response, and his ability to perform this advanced procedure, not only saved Susan from surgery; it saved her, period.

New England Memorial Hospital is on the forefront of endoscopic diagnosis and treatment. Susan Callahan gratefully acknowledges that without Dr. Marcal, without the quick attention in the emergency room, and without a technological breakthrough like endoscopy, she wouldn't have a story to tell. Especially one with a happy ending.

"We provide superior parts at no extra cost to the customer" said Rick and Rudi Pierotti. "Any garage can get the parts you need, but do they go to the extra trouble to make sure they are the top quality parts? Not usually." When price is important, it is important to get the job done right, the first time. When you consider that many mechanics will cut corners to keep prices down it's good to know that there is one place that provides top certified mechanics with years and years of experience who know that good work needs great parts. The Brake Stop is that place!

If you feel you're being treated like a machine by a machine when you get your car serviced, stop at the Brake Stop! They have a comfortable waiting room with magazines of interest to you, not just the trade magazines. You will get personal, friendly service with attention to detail and safety. They even offer a courtesy phone.

They do more than brakes, complete auto repairs are available, from oil changes to engine changes. Tune-ups are a specialty and at super prices, too! They will do what you need at a price you'll like. They'll meet or beat any written estimate.

If you have a question about service on your car either Rick or Rudi would be happy to answer that question over the phone just call (508) 988-9567. Or you can bring your car in for a free no obligation evaluation. They are open 7:30 to 5:30 Monday thru Friday and starting September 2nd they will be open Saturdays from 8:30 to 3:00. Located on Main Street in Tewksbury next to Haffner's Car Wash, look for the big red Stop sign!

L'il Red Schoolhouse • 1503 Andover St., Tewksbury • 851-3220

It started out as sort of a community service project. Alice Juchnevics saw the Ella Fleming School disintegrating and decided to do something about preserving a piece of Tewksbury's history. She and her husband, Peter, with help from the Town of Tewksbury rehabbed the whole building, while keeping its character and principal use in tact - education. Now that little red school house on Andover St (Rt 133) in North Tewksbury is providing day care and preschool education to 120 families in the Tewksbury area through Alice's company: L'il Red Schoolhouse.

The center cares for children 15 months to 12 years old providing developmental education in a country school setting. The entire staff are degreed in education to ensure high quality education. They are also first aid and CPR trained.

But it's more than just a day care center. Jean McCartin, director of the center, explained that she thinks of it as continuing that community service role. Making it possible for parents to cope with the pressures of today's hectic business pace, while guaranteeing their children quality time, all at an affordable price. The center has an open door policy, in fact, parents are encouraged to drop by to visit the children during the day. A lunch date is a common occurrence. Many parents volunteer in different aspects, too.

A little dip in the pool - preschoolers enjoy playing with water in the kid's height water table in the backyard playground.

Flexibility is another feature that Ms. McCartin spoke of. Many parents need only 2 or 3 days of care for their children or afternoon or mornings only. Some have schedules that change constantly. A L'il Red Schoolhouse that's not a problem. They open at 6:45 a.m. and stay open until 6:00 p.m.

Of course no education could rightfully end with pomp and circumstance so every year as the preschooler step into the wide world of kindergarten they participate in the traditional graduation ceremony - complete with diploma.

Recycling in the workplace

by Tania Butler

Recycling at the office is not only good for the environment, but it is also good for the bottom line. Recycling doesn't cost, it pays. Money can be saved at both ends of the office waste stream. Source reduction cuts down on costly waste of materials. Recycling reduces disposal costs as well as generates income. No office is too small to recycle. Small companies can get together with other companies in a common building or in the local area to pool their recyclables.

The success of an office recycling program depends upon those running it. Management should be actively involved in establishing a recycling program. They can set forth company goals for reducing waste and recycling, publicize the program, train employees to implement the program, and provide incentives for employees that discover new ways to reduce waste and recycle efficiently. Specific people need to be in charge of office recycling programs at various levels, depending on the size of the company.

Seventy percent or more of most office waste is paper. Another large and growing area of office waste is cartridges (especially laser printer cartridges). Disposable shipping materials as well as disposable tableware used in company cafeterias can be recycled by exchanging these items for reusable materials. Nondurable office products from pallets to office equipment are also areas where waste can be reduced by substituting more durable products.

Americans throw away millions of tons of office paper annually. This includes letterhead, memos, reports, forms, photocopies, computer printouts, newsletters, faxes, etc. High grade office paper is a valuable commodity and can be sold in the recycling market. Source reduction can eliminate a large portion of paper waste. Copy machines that copy documents on both sides of the paper (duplex copying) reduces copies by 50 percent. Single sided copy waste paper can be reused for note paper or donated to schools and child care centers to be used for art projects, editing can be done on computers. Centralized bulletin boards should be used for memos when possible.

Reuse paper products such as interoffice envelopes, file folders, manila envelopes and boxes where possible.

Cut down on mail you send and receive. Mailing lists should be maintained to prevent duplications. Ask to be removed from mailing lists that send you mail you do not need to receive. A simple postcard to the sender can accomplish this. To be removed from all third class mailing lists contact Direct Marketing Association, P.O. Box 3861, Grand Central Station, NY, NY 10163, (212) 689-4977. Journals, reports and periodicals should be centralized or circulated so that several people are not receiving the same items in the mail.

Cartridges from laser printers, copiers, and fax machines can be recharged at half the cost of buying new cartridges. Each laser printer cartridge, for example, can be recycled up to six times.

Approximately 30 million laser printer cartridges are used each year and around 25 million are thrown away annually. Local computer companies are good references for locating laser printer cartridge recyclers. Furthermore, the American Cartridge Recycling Association (ACRA), 1717 Bayshore Drive, Suite 2434, Miami, FL 33132 (305) 539-0701 will refer people to their members.

Disposable shipping materials should be replaced with reusable alternatives. Use sturdy, reusable pallets.

In the cafeteria, replace disposable cups, plates and cutlery with washable, reusable mugs, glasses, china and flatware. A dishwasher for this purpose would quickly pay for itself.

Buy office furnishings and machines that will last and are easy to repair. If possible, buy rebuilt equipment to economize as well as to support that market. Sell or donate equipment to other people rather than dispose of it. Likewise, support recycling markets by purchasing recycled paper products whenever possible. There are all types of high quality recycled paper products available which include stationery, copy paper and even paper towels and toilet paper. To increase the value of the paper you recycle, avoid colored paper.

Any type of business can find ways to reduce waste and recycle what they uniquely use in their line of business. Corporate goals and environmental goals are compatible and therefore should go hand in hand.

Feeding time

Some folks don't like the ducks and geese at Silver Lake, but other people amuse themselves by feeding them.

MCC offers new program

CollegeStart is a new program at Middlesex Community College (MCC) designed for adult students who are interested in entering or re-entering college. It provides an opportunity for the non-traditional student to attend college classes in a supportive environment with other adult students at a reduced tuition.

"This program is ideal for adults who want to start or resume college," reports Evelyn Clements, dean of student development at

MCC. "They will enroll in a college course together and have an advisor who works directly with them. An additional one credit seminar, exclusively for them, provides information on career decision making and a chance to discuss common issues."

The program consists of two credit courses; Introduction to Human Behavior and a one credit seminar, offered one day a week for 15 weeks. Students have the option of enrolling in either a day or evening program. The day time session will be held at the Bedford Campus, Springs Road, beginning Friday, September 11 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The evening course will be held at the City Campus, Lowell, beginning Tuesday, September 15, from 5:30 to 9:30.

In addition to helping students acquire the skills needed to succeed in college, CollegeStart provides the opportunity to explore career options and decide on a major which will meet a student's career goals. Middlesex offers a full range of support services including academic advising, career counseling, tutorial services and an adult support group.

To participate in CollegeStart, students must be age 23 or older and have never taken a credit course at Middlesex. To learn more about the CollegeStart Program call 1-800-643-5739.

Camp Fire program in full swing

Camping with Camp Fire is in full swing, and over 350 children have been enjoying themselves and making new friends in the great outdoors! Three children from Wilmington were part of the non stop action at Camp Fire camps this camping season. This summer, children from Wilmington attended Camp Nawaka, Camp Fire's resident camp in the Berkshires, and the response from the children was extremely positive. This year's attendees were Diana Delaney, Darcelle L. LaValley and Leigh Ann Waterhouse.

colleagues from around the country visited Kuchinsky in Moscow to solidify this summer's exchange. The hope is that next year campers from Nawaka can travel to Russia to visit some of their summer camps.

Camp Nawaka, which is located on a 130 acre site in the scenic Berkshire mountains of western Mass., offers more than 175 boys and girls the chance to live and participate in a community of varied cultural and racial backgrounds, while learning the importance of Nawaka's "Mutual Respect" motto. A private 20 acre lake is the focal point for swimming, boating, and nature activities, and campers live in rustic cabins and platform tents along the lakeshore. Other activities at Nawaka include: arts and crafts, dramatics, photography, tennis, archery, horseback riding and field sports.

Camp Nawaka offers programming that gives youth the opportunity to live, learn and share with others, to discover and build individual skills, and to become closely involved with the natural environment. The camp is a place where children can relax, be themselves, have fun and develop new coping skills and self-esteem. Camp Nawaka is accredited by the American Camping Association.

Under the expert guidance of Broadway Dance Director Cindy Conley, students of the Broadway Dance Academy have performed throughout New England on stage & television. Their credits include, The Dance Prism & Ballet Theatre of Boston's Nutcracker, Boston Childrens Hospital, Channel 6 Toys for Tots, Channel 5 Talent Showcase, The Cosby Show, Miss Merrimack Valley Pageant, Tewksbury's 4th of July & Homecoming celebrations as well as many civic organizations & benefits. Their efforts have been supported in part through a grant provided by the Tewksbury Mass. Arts Lottery Council.

The Broadway Dance Companies completed a successful competition season, returning as winners in Danceamerica, Starpower, Dance Spectrum, Starsystems, Dance Educators & Dance Olympus. They recently returned from Atlantic City as winners in Starpowers Grand National Championships where they competed among thousands of dancers from top schools across the nation. We are extremely proud of the recognition and reputation these groups have achieved.

The Staff at Broadway Dance has spent weeks this summer attending classes, conventions & workshops in Boston, Buffalo, New York City & Las Vegas. This fall - they bring all the best in dance home to you!

MCC registration

Evening registration for fall semester continuing education/community services classes at Middlesex Community College (MCC) will be held Tuesday, August 25 and Wednesday, September 2 from 5 to 7:30 at City Campus, Kearney Square, Lowell and Wednesday, August 26 and Thursday, September 3, from 5 to 7:30 at the Bedford Campus, Springs Road. (Classes begin Wednesday, September 9.)

Counselors and program coordinators will be available to assist students with course selection.

Walk-in registration continues during daytime office hours at both the Bedford and Lowell campus sites. Residents are reminded that MCC's Bedford Registration Center has been moved to the Enrollment Center at the new campus site on Springs Road. To request a free catalog, call 1-800-643-5739.

Caravan Camps at YMCA

The Eastern Middlesex Family YMCA will be offering two one week caravan camps for elementary children August 24-28 and August 31-September 4.

Children must be registered for a minimum of two days and those registering for a week or more will receive a discount. These weeks are geared to fill in activities before school begins while parents are working. Each week will be action packed with activities that will include beach trips and one amusement park each week. Thursday night will offer an overnight both sessions.

Daily rates will be $15, activity fees will be additional and a listing will be available upon registering. Caravan camp will run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and spaces will be limited based on transportation. For more information, call the YMCA at 944-7989.

Miceli office hours

Representative James R. Miceli, who represents both Tewksbury and Wilmington on Beacon Hill, will hold his monthly office hours for constituents on the following dates:

Tewksbury: Monday, August 17 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the town hall.

Wilmington: Tuesday, August 18 at 4a Colonial Park Mall from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Wilmington Democratic Committee

The Wilmington Democratic Town Committee will meet at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, August 19, at the Fourth of July Headquarters, Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington.

Ann Visconti, chairman of the committee informed members that Congressman Nick Mavroules will be visiting the committee this evening. Since Wilmington is now in the 6th Congressional District, Wilmington will have an opportunity to meet the new Congressman.

Representative Barbara Hildt and Democratic candidates for Congress and State Representative for Precinct 3, Wilmington have been invited to attend.

"The big challenge this year is to register voters and recruit many young and undecided voters to join in our team effort to elect a Democratic in November," said Visconti.

Friends of the Elderly, Inc.

Giant yard and bake sale

The Friends of the Elderly, Inc. will sponsor a giant yard and bake sale Saturday, August 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Tewksbury Senior Center, 175 Chandler St.

The annual Tewksbury Senior Citizen Craft Fair will be held Saturday, November 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Tewksbury Senior Center, 175 Chandler St.

Table space is available by calling 640-4480. Craft and holiday items will be offered including a bake table and refreshments.

Hair is the Total You

SUN SPOTS

By Pam Connaghan

If a sunbathing woman uses juice as a hair lightening agent, she should take precautions to keep the juice away from her skin. Lemons, limes, oranges, and many vegetables contain an agent called "psoralen" which can cause a skin reaction when it comes in contact with ultraviolet light. If a woman applies lemon juice to her hair and fails to wash her hands or wear an absorbent headband, she may develop redness, swelling and itching on her hands, neck and forehead. This reaction may last only a few weeks, but in some cases, the skin discoloration may persist. A better hair-lightening idea rests with asking the color technician to highlight hair to mimic the sun's natural effect. Professional hair coloring involves better control and fewer side effects. We'll sunshine your hair with the latest hair coloring highlighting techniques from Matrix®.

Here at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON

we offer you total beauty in a relaxed environment. We use Matrix hair and skin care products to insure that you will look your best - because when you look good, we look good. We serve you with expert styling in a friendly atmosphere, so whether you want to look your stunning best for a special occasion, or you are ready to try an exciting new cut - or a tried and true favorite - we're here to help. We're easy to reach at 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington and our salon is open six days and nights a week, closed Sunday.

For highlights we recommend Matrix Sowwhite and Lite® bleach. Full time manicurist on staff.

HINT: To avoid possible skin discoloration, rinse away citrus juice after eating fruit in the sun.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending August 11, Wilmington police officers responded to 38 alarms, made 11 arrests, investigated an assault and assisted other departments on two occasions.

Two burglaries were checked out, 20 reports of disorderly conduct were investigated, four domestic problems were quieted, 12 larcenies were logged, a motor vehicle was reported stolen and two vehicles were recovered.

Eight non criminal complaints were logged, 11 arrests and eight protective/custody detentions were made, seven public services were performed, three threat complaints were taken and eight traffic accidents were investigated.

Nine traffic services were carried out, two trail bike complaints were taken, alert neighbors reported 10 incidents of suspicious activity and 10 incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Wednesday morning Sgt. Jim Rooney drove to Lowell District Court to arrest Michael J. Silva, 28 of Reed Street, Wilmington on the basis of a default warrant. Silva was taken to Woburn District Court for further processing.

At 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Susan M. Surette, 39, of Reading was arrested on Lowell Street by Officer Jon Shepard. Surette was charged with operating while under the influence of alcohol. She was bailed for Thursday morning at Woburn District Court.

Thursday morning Officer Jim Hanlon drove to Quincy to arrest Robert F. Pond of that city on the basis of a Wilmington warrant. He was taken to Woburn Court for arraignment.

Inspector Tom Miller picked up Joseph Fay Jr. of Salem N.H. at the Middleton House of Correction Thursday morning, on a default warrant. Fay was taken to Woburn District Court for further action.

While patrolling on Glen Road, Friday afternoon Officer John Bossi arrested Ronald White, 32 of Haverhill. White was charged with operating after his drivers license had been suspended.

Late Friday evening, Officer Joe Waterhouse arrested William Tarbert of Fitz Terrace, charging him with motor vehicle offenses. He was bailed for a Monday court appearance.

Saturday afternoon Sgt. Jim Rooney and Officer Jon Shepard arrested Kevin Curlew, 31 of Lowell, charging him with violation of a restraining order. Unable to post bail, he was held for the weekend pending his appearance in Woburn District Court.

Sgt. David McCue and Officer Steve LaRivee arrested Pedro Rivas, 22 of Woburn Saturday evening, charging him with assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon and threatening.

Monday morning Officer John Bossi arrested Stephen Ryan, 32 of Billerica, while on patrol on Lowell Street. Ryan was charged with motor vehicle offenses and taken to Woburn Court.

Officers Paul Jepson and Louis Martignetti arrested Edwin Santos of Lawrence after a stop on Lowell Street at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday. Santos was charged with operating without a drivers license, defective equipment and speeding. He posted bail, to appear Tuesday morning at Woburn Court.

Wilmington senior topics

Televised meeting August 18

The Commissioners' televised meeting will be held in the function room of the Buzzell Senior Citizen Center, 15 School St. Tuesday, August 18 beginning at 2:30 p.m. Nomination of officers will take place at this meeting.

Appointed by TM

The Commissioners are appointed by the town manager to serve all of us. Through their vote on issues placed before them will determine how they are meeting all the seniors' needs. This procedure is similar to our Congress, House of Representatives or Board of Selectmen.

Watch how they vote

If the issue voted into law is to satisfy a special interest group, but not the majority of the citizens they serve, we can complain all we want, but if we were not there to voice our objections our complaints are useless. It is very important for everyone of us to let our voices be heard by the commissioners at the meetings that a vote of approval should meet the needs of at least the majority of the seniors they are serving.

This cannot happen

This cannot happen if all of us do not show up to express our interest. Don't let a handful of seniors attending the meetings being held to meet your needs make the decision for you. Attend and give your own input. I hope you will put aside a little more than an hour on the third Tuesday of each month to be at the Commissioners' meeting.

Social August 19

The therapeutic social will be held Wednesday evening, August 19 in Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall on South Street, Tewksbury. Dinner will be served at seven. Remember you have been assigned a table when you signed up. You do not have to rush, take your time, relax so you can enjoy the evening.

Medex,

Blue Cross/Blue Shield

Monday, August 24 at 2 p.m. Bob Bycke Medex director at Blue Cross/Blue Shield has been invited to visit the Buzzell Senior Citizen Center. In the past year I have had so many seniors come to me with

Essay contest

Jennifer Caira of Fletcher Lane, Wilmington was one of six Bay State high school seniors who were honored as winners of the Massachusetts Sons of Italy Christopher Columbus Quincentennial essay contest. The six shared in the $20,000 raised through the combined efforts of a very dedicated committee.

Jennifer is shown receiving the top scholarship award from (2nd left) State President of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Order Sons of Italy in America, Angelo Furnari and from (2nd from right) State 2nd Vice President Lorraine Fama, who served as State Chairman of this committee since its inception in 1986. On left, is co-chairman of the essay program Francine Partridge of Belmont and on far right, Co-Chairman Ann Marie Moreno of Woburn.

Guests and speakers at the reception, which was held recently at the Great Hall State House, Boston, included the Honorable Roberto Falaschi, Italian Consul General, The Honorable Joseph V. Ferraro, State Coordinator of the Italian American Quincentennial Commission, State President Angelo Furnari, State Chaplain the Rev. Joseph J. Rossi and family and friends of the recipients. Jennifer is the daughter of Jane and Michael Caira.

Senior League

Tewks/Wilmington Elks 13 Tewksbury K of C 7

Lisa Neary came through with a superb pitching performance for the winners.

Sharon Bailey hit a homerun and Samantha Cassidy came through with some key hits offensively.

Deidre Coakley did a great job in the field.

Tewksbury K of C pitcher Leann Stella did a nice job on the mound. She helped her cause by contributing two solid hits.

Janet Lee and Laura Nicholas chipped in with two hits apiece. Defensively, Kerry Lane and Gretchen Wisheart had a great game.

Tewks Plumbing & Heating 15 TD Waffle 13

Another great battle between the top two teams in the West Division. Erin Hazel and Kristen Thompson both pitched complete games for their teams.

For the winning team, Erin was supported by the homerun of Rene Salipante and timely hitting by Kendra Hansford, Kathleen Haggerty and Erin, herself.

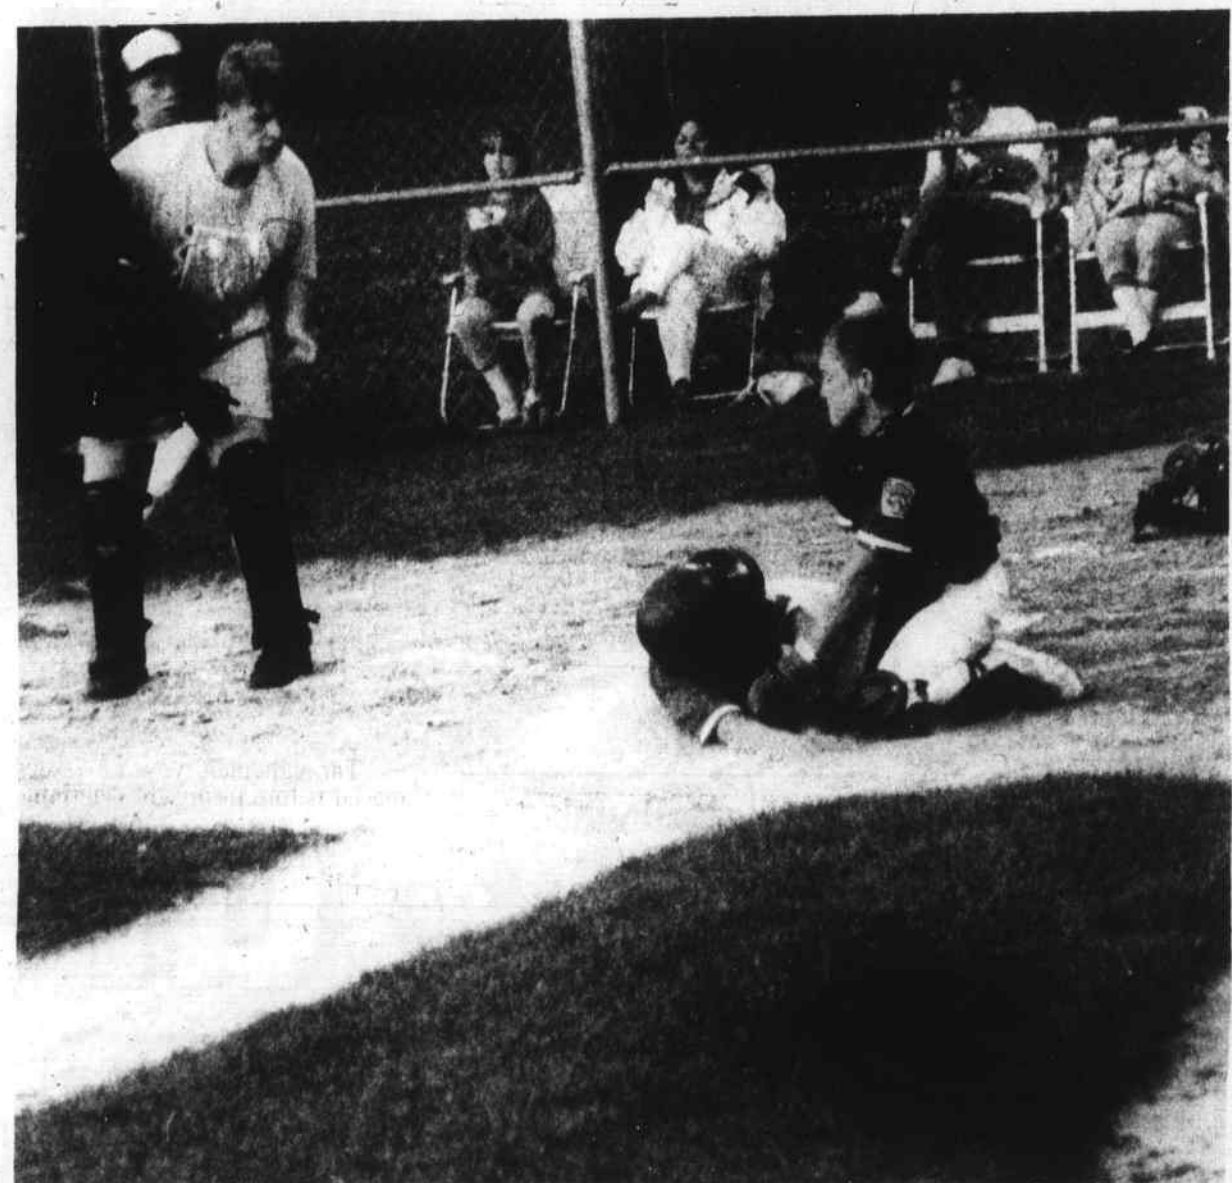

Fine fielding plays were turned in by Missy Carroll, Kim Bittano and Rene Salipante.

Kristen pitched another fine game. She was supported by the excellent fielding of Valerie Bemis and Karen Celata. Jeannie Selissen, Jen Jandreau, Diana Day and Kristen Powers all displayed their offensive talents at the plate.

Ryan Mackey battles back

American League All-Star pitcher Ryan Mackey fires a fastball past a National League batter during last week's all-star contest in Tewksbury. Ryan battled back from a bout with wildness late in the game.

Out at the plate

The American League's Kevin Gilfillan is tagged out at the plate by National League All-Star catcher Tom Sullivan in last week's star-studded 10-year-old Little League contest in Tewksbury.

Tiny tots highlights

The 1992 summer session of Tiny Tots has come to an end. On Thursday, Aug. 6, 300 tots and family members filled the Sons of Italy hall to celebrate the conclusion of a fun filled summer.

Both large and tiny tots enjoyed a half hour slide show of the summer's events. Following the show, everyone enjoyed a delicious smorgasbord of desserts.

They then sat down to an hour of dancing and singing with musician/composer, David Powlanski. Mr. Powlanski was a great hit. At the conclusion of the show, Mr. Powlanski had tots and parents dancing and singing to his hit "The Wilmington Boogie."

The Shawsheen School was transformed into a world of Wacky Water Fun on the last day of the program. We went fishing, splashed in the sprinklers and caught up on our summer tans.

To cool off, each tot had their favorite popsicles and relaxed until it was time to say goodbye. All tots left with a class picture and memories of three great weeks.

The staff would like to express many thanks to the Shawsheen School administration and custodial staff, volunteer staff, parents and all the tiny tots. With all of your help and contributions, the summer was a great success.

New York City

The Recreation Department has planned two luxury coach trips for the fall to the Big Apple. The early trip will be on Sat., Oct. 17.

The Christmas season trip with all the bright lights and yuletide merriment will be Sat., Dec. 5. Both trips leave the common at 6:30 a.m. and NYC at 8:30 p.m., arriving home by 12:45 a.m.

The cost is still at a low figure of $40 per person. This is a very convenient way to see the Statue of Liberty and do some early Christmas shopping. Hurry and sign-up in the town hall weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Big E

Travel with us Sun., Sept. 20 as we head west to the Big E (Eastern States Exposition), New England's Great State Fair in West Springfield. The group will travel by luxury coach, leaving Wilmington at 9 a.m., viewing Old Deerfield on the way and stopping at Yankee Candle in So. Deerfield before we arrive at the Big E around noon. The group will head home at 8:30 p.m., arriving in Wilmington around 10:15. Cost is $25 per person. Sign-up for the fall fair of New England.

Playground week in review

The Wilmington Rec's Pine Needle Grove Playground has really been enjoying the summer.

The playground began the week by making bead and gimp bracelets.

Wednesday the playground took a trip to Crane's Beach where we won first place for best design in the annual and castle competition.

On Thursday, the Wilmington Police showed us a wonderful time on Police Beach Day at Silver Lake. They gave us a great cookout, while we held swim races and hosted a sand castle competition. Our sand castle winners were: "Four Fish in the Sea," "NYC Sewer System," "Save the Sea," and "The Mountain of Doom." On Friday, we traveled to Water Country in Portsmouth for a day of wet and wild fun.

With all this activity, we were lucky to have volunteers like Paul Bruno and Mike LaCorcia and others around to help out. Our Playgroupers of the Week, Colleen Campbell and Brandon Courtois, were also extremely helpful.

Golf, tennis tourney Sept. 14

Monday, September 14, the Monsignor John J. Linnehan Golf/Tennis Tournament will be held at the Charles River Country Club. Round-robin tennis and shotgun golf will commence at 1 p.m.

The $90 entry fee for tennis includes court fees, tournament prizes, refreshments and a barbecue.

The $150 golf package includes greens fees, golf cart, tee prizes, hole in one contest, refreshments and barbecue.

Proceeds of the event will benefit Arlington Catholic High School's building campaign - "Building its Future." Sponsorship and super sponsorships are available.

Arlington Catholic's alumni are hosting this tournament as part of its capital campaign to build a much needed addition to their school.

The addition will include the Monsignor John J. Linnehan Library, named to honor a man who has given so much to so many during his almost 50 years of priesthood.

The library will be handicapped accessible and open to senior citizens. The addition will also include new office space, three classrooms, a music and art room, enabling the school to expand its fine arts program.

Anyone interested in participating in or sponsoring the golf/tennis tournament should call 646-5101 or 876-1885.

Local trio sparks Northeast Region

Robert Lesko of Wilmington and Tewksbury residents Peter McRae and Joe Beasley recently participated in the Bay State Games Ice Hockey Championships. Each was a member of the Northeast Region ice hockey team.

The ice hockey championship was won by the Coastal Region. The Metro Region won the silver medal and the Northeast Region won the bronze medal.

All games were played at Boston University's Walter Brown Arena and at the Dexter School in Brookline. The competition was held July 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Lesko currently attends Wilmington High School, while McRae and Beasley are students at Tewksbury Memorial High School.

These finalists won their way into their regional squad by competing in tryouts held in June that were attended by nearly 500 players from across the state.

The Bay States Games are Massachusetts' own Olympic Festival, with an average annual participation of 10,000 athletes from every city and town in the state.

The games were created to offer young people in Massachusetts opportunities for self development and to be part of the Olympic movement.

The 1992 Bay State Games ice hockey competition was made possible in part by the efforts of CCM, official sponsor of the hockey competition.

Bob Lesko

Bob Lesko of Wilmington High School was solid in net in the recent Bay State Games.

Peter McRae

Tewksbury High School's Peter McRae helped the Northeast Region hockey squad to Bay State Games success.

Joe Beasley

Joe Beasley of Tewksbury High School was one of the mainstays on the Northeast Region hockey team.

YMCA swim team

The Eastern Middlesex Family YMCA in Reading will be starting a swim team for boys and girls in grades one through 12.

The swim team will introduce members to competitive swimming in a well coached, low key atmosphere with emphasis being placed on participation and improving personal swim times.

The swim team will be a collaboration with the Wakefield YMCA and all swim practices will be held at the Wakefield YMCA Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

The Hornet swim team will compete in the YMCA Eastern Mass. Division III League.

"This team is a great opportunity for those kids interested in swimming, but unsure whether competitive swimming is for them. They can work hard improving their skills, meet new friends and challenge themselves in the pool," says Jim Conner, YMCA program director.

"We are very excited about this chance to bring competitive swimming to Reading and are thrilled about the collaboration with the Wakefield YMCA."

The Hornet's season will run from October through February, with practices each week.

The fee for the season will be $100 and all swimmers must be YMCA members. For more information about the Hornet swim team, contact Jim Conner at the YMCA at 944-7989.

Learning to live with weeds

by Bill Conlon
In New England, you can't fish in the summer without having to pull weeds off your hook. (Exceptions do exist, such as trout streams and the ocean, but not today.)

Weeds are everywhere. Shallow water and deep, river and pond. It's a fact of life.

So you might as well learn to live with weeds. Since you can't beat 'em, may as well join 'em.

Fish of all shapes and sizes can be found in and under the weeds. The plants offer food for insects, which attract smaller fish, and the weeds provide protective cover for little fry. These small fish attract the big ones, which is why we're here. A thick weedbed also gives protection from anglers, as if you and the fish hadn't both noticed that yet.

Fish have no eyelids, so they can't quite squint in the bright sunshine. A weedbed provides vital shade and cooler water.

So we have food, protection from sun and predator and cooler temperatures -- everything a fish could ask for. Besides, fish are weedless, so the plants don't slow them down at all. They don't mind the weeds.

The trick is how to get them out of the thicket.

Naturally, you'll be using line of at least 10 pound test, and 20 pound isn't "unsportsmanlike" at all. You need some real muscle to haul a big bass out of a lily pad field, and that extra strength is vital when (not if) you get hung up.

Lily pads are the easiest weed to identify, and the easiest to fish.

Lilies grow in six to eight feet of water, and usually there is nothing growing under them. Water lilies block the sun, so other plants can't grow. Fragrant Water Lilies prefer the shallow side, while American Lotus, with its bigger leaves, can be found on the deeper parts, usually.

A rubber worm, rigged weedless, will get bass out of the lilies, but do put a sliding sinker in front of the hook. That extra weight pulls the worm down between the pads, so you won't have to look for an open spot to cast into. If you're chicken about getting snagged you can cast to the edges of the pads, but the best bass won't be found near the edges. The brutes hide right in the middle, where you can't reach them.

To avoid spooking the bigger bass try casting to the far side of the lily pads. Heavier line means shorter casting distances, but using spider web line in the weeds means costly lures lost. You decide.

But there are more weeds than water lilies to contend with.

"Pickerel weed" is a long, stringy plant with elliptical leaves. It most often appears in eight to 10 feet of water.

A minnow (live or fake) worked through the upper reaches of the pickerel weed may bring a few hits, but a lure worked deep, between clumps of the weed or along the deep edge, is even better.

Again, I prefer a weighted rubber worm, or else twist tin foil around the hooks of a deep-diving plug to make it weedless.

Another plant (I wish I knew the name) produces tiny white flowers on the surface, but the bulk of the thick stuff is submerged. It's found in shallow water and deep, since it floats. Look for the flowers, then cast to the edges of the weedy mass. The fish, again, like the deep side. A few small ones may be found in the thick of the mass, but the bigger ones are below or beside it.

There are two types of algae that deserve mention.

The first is "mermaid's hair" as I call it, and in the water it looks like a green cloud. On your hook it will show up as clingy green streak. Try to avoid it. This nasty stuff seems to repel fish. Perhaps it gets caught in their gills.

The second type of algae is more valuable, however.

Duckweed is a collection of small green circles, (often two or three lobes together) which floats on the surface. If you find one dot, you'll find enough to cover a parking lot. Duckweed is mostly found on still water, but you can see a streak of it today by St. John's Hospital, where the Concord River empties into the Merrimack.

Because duckweed floats it blocks off the sunlight, so there is usually nothing growing underneath. Don't bother using a floating lure, since it will quickly clog up with the little green specks. But a weighted lure will sink below the duckweed, and there may be surprises underneath!

There are a few grasses growing in the waters of New England, but not enough to warrant a mention. The few found around here grow in very shallow water, often less than two feet. Since grass provides little cover or protection, don't bother.

When in doubt about a weed bed, cast to the deeper side and let your offering sink all the way down.

And if the lure says "weedless", here's your chance to find out.

Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club will present their annual autumn Hunter

Education Course next month, at their handicap-accessible Chandler Street headquarters. The classes are scheduled to run September 3 until October 15, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., and you must attend all classes to get a certificate. The cost is free and the class is both entertaining and informative. Besides, it's a place where you won't be sneered at for talking about hunting, and that's nice!

If you're looking for a state gold pin for big fish, instead of a bronze, you've got problems. The top bass taken in Massachusetts so far this is 9-pounds 6-ounces, as caught by the legendary Roger Pyzocha. The top pike is 32-pounds, 14-ounces, taken out of Lake Quinsigamond, and the biggest smallmouth (a smallie!) is 6-pounds-7, caught in the Quabbin.

Marsha Bierman, big game angler, will highlight boat show

One of the best known, big game anglers in the world, Marsha Bierman, will be at the Newport International Boat Show Thursday and Friday, September 10 and 11, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

As spokeswoman for Harken USA, Bierman will be found at the show activity tent and at the Team One booth, sharing the secrets of her short rod, stand up fishing techniques.

Bierman, who has topped Power and Motoryacht's list of top 10 anglers for five years running, has pioneered the "pump and wind" technique which enables her to shorten her fighting time with large fish.

Standing against tradition, Bierman's techniques for catching marlin on short rods standing up have helped her further her international reputation as an expert angler in the world of big game sports fishing.

No matter how strong you are, you can't overpower big fish," said Bierman. "So you have to use some finesse." She has a healthy respect for her catch, which she releases after the contest.

At five feet seven inches, Bierman has reeled in catches more than 10 times her size, and is the only angler to land over 100 blue marlin off the coast of Bimini.

The "stand up guru" will share the secrets of her success with show goers courtesy of Harken USA. Bierman promotes the company's new HS-1 and HS-2 lines of boat shoes.

Harken, headquartered in Pewaukee, Wisconsin, introduced the world's first, full support, athletic boat shoe.

The stand up, short rod technique employed by Bierman requires secure footing on wet decks, as such, her input has led to the development of Harken's newest line of all-purpose boat shoes.

Named by Sail Magazine as one of the U.S.' best boat shows, the Newport International Boat Show (Sept. 10-13) will be a new, combined, in-water "Super Show," featuring both power and sail boats.

The show will feature more than twice the number of boats in the water than in previous shows, plus more land and booth displays than ever before.

Keeping with the "Newport for New Products" tradition, many exhibitors will be displaying products for the first time as the fall boat show season begins.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Adult tickets are $8 (one day), $14 (two days), $18 (three days). Children under 12 are admitted free if accompanied by an adult. Tickets are available by calling 401-846-1600.

Football officials training program

The Association of New England Football Officials is offering a training course for those interested in becoming high school football officials, beginning Monday, August 31 at the Irish-American Club in Malden.

The course will be taught by current college and high school officials and will be held one night each week for nine weeks. Cost of the course is $40.

For more information and to register for the course, call Paul Tighe at (617) 662-7278.

Youth soccer rules' course

The Wilmington Youth Soccer Association (WYSA) will present a course on in-town soccer rules on Saturday, August 29 from 9 to 11 a.m. at Shawsheen Field.

The course is designed for in-town referees and coaches and will introduce the laws of the game, on field technique, signal, positioning and use of linesmen.

The goals of the course include teaching referees and coaches the rules of the games and introducing techniques for effective control of a youth soccer match.

Travel team players (U-12 and older) that attend and complete this course will be given preference in fall in-town game assignments.

The course will be taught by state certified, game tested referees who will answer any questions and share their 'real life' experiences.

Any questions should be referred to the in-town referee coordinator, Mike Robillard at 657-6083.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

TOO SLOW CAN KILL

QUESTION: Is it true that driving too slow on a super highway can be as dangerous as driving too fast?

ANSWER: Yes. Here's a case in point. An elderly couple wanted to enjoy the foliage along a highway, so they crawled along at 30 mph. Before long, a long line of cars had queued up behind them. They couldn't pass because of the hills and curves. Finally, a teenager in a souped up aging sedan got impatient, pulled out and floored the gas pedal. He made it, but the car coming in the opposite direction had to swerve into a ditch to avoid a collision. The injury toll was three dead and two seriously injured. Driving too slow on a highway CAN be dangerous.

YMCA fall registration begins August 24

Registration for the fall session at the Eastern Middlesex Reading YMCA will begin on August 24 for YMCA members and the general public. All adult and youth classes will start September 21 and run for eight weeks.

A wide variety of preschool classes will once again be offered by Carmen O'Rourke and Chris Burditt.

Parents will find an exciting assortment of classes geared for children of all ages that are sure to be fun and valuable for all.

Gym classes such as toddler gym and parent tot gym provide an opportunity for parents to share in their child's introduction to a world of movement, gross motor development and play.

Also running this session are educational classes such as What's Cookin', which emphasizes kitchen safety while your child enjoys a different cooking experience every week. An exciting and educational experience awaits your preschooler at the Eastern Middlesex YMCA.

A number of popular youth programs will also be running in the late fall session. Biddy Basketball, for girls and boys is a fun, instructional class that your child is sure to enjoy in the upcoming months.

Several levels are offered to insure your child an enjoyable and successful basketball experience, whether she or he is a complete beginner or an experienced basketball player.

The YMCA's established karate program, teaches self defense as well as inspiring health and confidence.

The karate classes will once again run Tuesday and Thursday nights at 6:30 p.m. The starting time is the same for all who are enrolled in the class. Lower belts, however, will run until 7:45, while advanced belts continue to 8:30.

The yoga classes offered by the YMCA invite adults to exercise the body, mind and spirit. The positive effects of this complementary program will benefit each individual who wishes to exercise in a friendly atmosphere.

Yoga will be led by Margaret Ricciardelli, who will focus on building strength and concentration through the teachings of Iyengar yoga.

The YMCA will be offering many more preschool, youth, and adult classes as well as the classes mentioned here. To find out more, please feel free to call or visit the Eastern Middlesex YMCA at 944-7989, 36 Arthur B. Lord Dr., Reading, across from the Birch Meadow School.

Feb 10, 1920 - July 9, 1992

The Family of Edward H. Bowley, Jr. extends their sincere thanks for the support offered by the many friends of Ed during this past month, especially the Wamesit Lodge AF & AM, the Tewksbury / Wilmington Elks and the Tewksbury Police Department.

obituaries

Vernon H. Darby, Sr.

Vernon H. Darby, Sr. 72, husband of Gladys E. (Beare) Darby died Wednesday, August 5, 1992 at St. John's Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born in Tewksbury, October 9, 1919, he was the son of the late Homer L. Darby and Mrs. Myrtle (Moors) Darby. He was educated in Tewksbury and served with the U.S. Army during World War II, assigned to 589th Field Battalion.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Darby was employed by Wang Laboratories and the F.I. Carter & Sons Greenhouse Co., of Tewksbury for 45 years. A lifelong resident of the town, he was a member of the First Baptist Church of Tewksbury and of the Wamesit Masonic Lodge for more than 40 years. He was also a member of the Andover Grange.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Darby is survived by two sons, Vernon H. Darby, Jr. of Jerome, Idaho, Scott B. Darby and his wife Elizabeth of Nashua, N.H.; a daughter, Mrs. Rox (Kathy) Jossup of Jerome, Idaho; his brother, Floyd K. Darby of Florida and New Hampshire; five sisters, Mrs. John (Irma) Peatman of Andover, Mrs. Henry (Norma) Lawson of Scaghticoke, N.Y.; Miss Vesta G. Darby, Mrs. Earl (Marilyn) Gemmell and Miss Thelma Darby all of Tewksbury and four grandchildren, Lora Kathryn Jessup and Janet Elizabeth Jessup both of Jerome, Idaho, Scott B. Darby Jr. and Rachel Ann Darby both of Nashua, N.H.

He was also the brother of the late Merwin K. Darby formerly of Andover who died in 1990.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Farmer and Dee Funeral Home, of Tewksbury. Burial followed in the Tewksbury Cemetery.

Donations may be made in his memory to the American Lung Association, 5 Mountain Rd., Burlington, MA 01830.

Ida E. Metcalfe

Ida E. Metcalfe, a resident of Wilmington since 1934, died August 10, 1992 at the J.F. Thomas Hospital in Peabody. Born in Pittsfield, MA, 85 years ago, Mrs. Metcalfe was the daughter of the late Mary Ellen (Jaques) and William Tymeson. She was the widow of Raymond R. Metcalfe and the mother of Roger and Raynor R. Metcalfe both of Wilmington; Patricia Freeman of Florida; Barbara Metcalfe of Hudson, N.H.; and Ronald A. Metcalfe of Danville, N.H. and the late Russell Metcalfe. Twelve grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Metcalfe was formerly employed as a supervisor of Palmer Electric of Saugus and Wakefield.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilmington United Methodist Church Thursday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Dr. Michael Stotts officiating. Visiting hours at the Nichols Funeral Home, Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington were scheduled for 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m., Wednesday. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mildred Steele

Mildred (Sheppard) Steele, 88 died Monday evening, August 10, 1992 at a Chelmsford nursing home following a brief illness. She was the widow of George W. Steele.

Born in Chelsea, April 12, 1907, she was the daughter of the late Paul and Emma (Shute) Sheppard, but lived in Malden until moving to Tewksbury nine years ago. She was a licensed practical nurse, specializing in private care for children.

Mrs. Steele was also a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Malden.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Carl (Barbara M.) Torson of Mount Vernon, N.H.; two sons, George W. Steele Jr. of Stuart, Fla., and Gerald C. Steele of Tewksbury; two daughters-in-law, Barbara Steele of Fla., and Joanne (Dunlee) Steele of Tewksbury; two sisters, Florence Quinn of Stoneham and Emma Cheney of Tewksbury. Nine grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren also survive.

Her funeral is scheduled for Friday at 9:30 a.m. from the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main streets (Rte. 38) Tewksbury Center, followed by funeral services at 11 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 26 Washington St., Malden. Calling hours at the funeral home are from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday. Burial will be in Forest Dale Cemetery, Malden.

Miceli announces budget surplus

Representative James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has announced that Mass. finished fiscal year 92 with a surplus bringing stability back to state budgeting.

Representative Miceli has been working diligently to restore fiscal responsibility in budgeting on all levels of government in the Commonwealth and is pleased with the success in budget balancing.

While other states are plagued by budget shortfalls, Massachusetts could have up to a $100 million in excess funds. While there are still some accounts which need to be resolved, Miceli is confident that this is a good step in improving the state's economy.

WilmingtonDo you remember Thompson's Grove ?

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Claude Thompson, born in Woburn in 1877, was not a member of the Thompson Family of Charlestown, Winchester, Woburn, Wilmington, etc. His parents, John and Sarah Stokes Thompson had moved to Woburn from Sackville, New Brunswick, about the time of the US Civil War.

There were two children, and probably more. Wilson and Claude were born in Woburn. Both moved to Wilmington. Wilson Thompson worked in the leather shops in North Woburn, and rode home each day on a bicycle. He lived at the end of a street now called Miller Road. His was a sedentary life.

Claude joined the United States Marines sometime about 1896. In 1897 the ship on which he was serving was in the port of Norfolk, Virginia.

Claude and a few other Marines, the story has it, went ashore for a "night on the town." They were arrested, and put in jail by the Norfolk police.

That was a lucky event for those marines. The USS Maine sailed without them next morning and they were not on board when that ship was destroyed by an explosion in February 1898, in the harbor of Havana, Cuba.

It is believed that after he left the Marines, Claude married a Woburn girl named Florence Phelps.

Her father owned a 20 acre farm in Wilmington, and when he died Florence inherited the property. The story of that inheritance has its highlights, which will not be repeated here.

Claude and Florence thus found themselves to be living across from the family of Christian and Stine Neilson, who were the owners of a Thompson farm dating back nearly 200 hundred years.

The Claude Thompson farm is today the site of St. Dorothy's Church, at the corner of Harnden Street and Main Street.

There was about eight or more acres of grassland, and about seven acres of pine, down near Main Street. The grassland extended over to Glen Road and the present Brattle Street. It was there that Claude Thompson did some farming, about an acre or two.

When the street cars came to Wilmington, some time before World War One it was Florence who knew what to do. She was the business woman of the family. She rented out picnic grounds, to associations and families of Charlestown and other suburban Boston areas.

The place known as the Thompson Farm soon became known as Thompson's Grove. There was a baseball diamond where St. Dorothy's Church is today. A small grove of pine trees, in back of the present church, was an ideal place for swings, where the ladies and children could be amused.

In the early days of Thompson's Grove there was a Sunday trip to the Wilmington Methodist Church. In its own way that was an event.

Claude had a nice brown haired horse named "Dandy." There was a white diamond in the center of the forehead, and Dandy could be recognized from a far distance.

Claude and Florence would go to church by carriage, a method observed by perhaps half a dozen families in that church. Most families were less than a mile distant, and walking was the best mode.

The Thompson carriage had a seat in front, for the man and his lady. In back two boys could sit, with legs dangling out, as they observed the road going by. Young Claude and the writer were those two boys.

Nina Kinkaid (Mrs. Herbert) Barrows ran the Sunday School. Alice (Mrs. Fred) Roberts was her assistant, and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton would count the pennies which were collected every Sunday. It was a pleasant event, worth remembering, and on the way home Dandy would get a drink from the town watering trough at the north end of Wilmington Common.

But Thompson's Grove was growing in scope. A good size dance hall had been built in the grove. If memory is correct the dance floor was 1200 square feet, said to be larger than any in Boston.

Things were getting busy for the Thompson family, and for the Pop Neilson family, at the top of the hill. Many Irish families had moved into the Silver Lake area, and others spent their summers nearby.

The Catholic Church arranged for masses, for those families. There were two sites in South Tewksbury, one St. Mary's being today the headquarters of the Tewksbury VFW.

Thompson's Grove, too, became a site for Sunday masses. The priests came (it is believed) from St. William's Church.

After church several hundred persons would go over to Pop's Farm to buy their Sunday vegetables. There would be a busy 20 minutes for Pop and his granddaughters and nieces. Pop would always arrange the picking of ears of corn so that it was picked just before the mass was concluded.

The Thompsons bought a sedan.

To buy a sedan in those days was not necessarily an event, just so long as it was a "Model T." The old Ford that Henry sold, had three pedals, and a gas lever that was adjusted by hand.

But the Thompson family bought a model of which this writer does not remember the name. It was, mildly, some potatoes!

It wasn't a Cadillac. It wasn't a Rickenbacker, but it was way up beyond a Ford!

There were a lot of cars, in those days, which lasted several years and then were never heard of again.

The story is not known why St. William's changed the site of the Sunday masses to the old Silver Lake Betterment Hall. Probably it was because more of those who were attending lived in Tewksbury, instead of Wilmington.

The Silver Lake Betterment Hall was constructed back before World War One, by an organization of women who called themselves the Silver Lake Women's Club. It was

The men of the area had a baseball team which won every game for about three years. They went by street car all over Massachusetts and played against all comers.

They, or maybe someone else constructed a hall, off Grove Avenue called the Silver Lake Men's Club. Maybe that was the reason there was also a Silver Lake Women's Club. Mrs. Harold Melzar of Lake Street, was one of the organizers.

It was probably in 1928 that the church services were transferred to the Silver Lake Betterment. How long that lasted the writer does not know. He left Wilmington that year.

It was in 1928 that young Claude entered Harvard. He did very well. After seven or eight years of study he graduated from the medical school as a dentist, and moved out of Wilmington with his wife, the former Muriel Marfleet of Boutwell Street.

The writer does not know when Florence Thompson died. Claude Thompson (senior) passed away in 1938 and was buried in Woburn.

Thompson's Grove was no longer a functioning organization. The wooden fence along Main Street disappeared, bit by bit, and near Glen Road, instead of a grassy plain there was growing maple and birch trees joined later by pines.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston was still interested in the Thompson property. Eventually the property was sold to the archbishop. After some years St. Dorothy's Church was erected, right over the old baseball diamond.

Dr. Claude Thompson DMD died on the 12th of April, 1986.

backyard gardening

by Hugh Wiberg

Some things in life are perfectly predictable. Examples are tons of hot air emanating from the Democratic and Republican Conventions, Japanese beetles in August, and the annual swoon of our beloved (?) Red Sox.

Not far behind in such a list we might add the regular August appearance of tent caterpillars on some of our fruit trees. A North Wilmington gardener writes as follows: "...every year our cherry trees are loaded with these tentlike nests filled with small caterpillars. It is bad enough that they look terrible, but they do quite a number on the leaves of the trees and I can't help but think that this yearly attack must be weakening the trees over time. Any suggestions?"

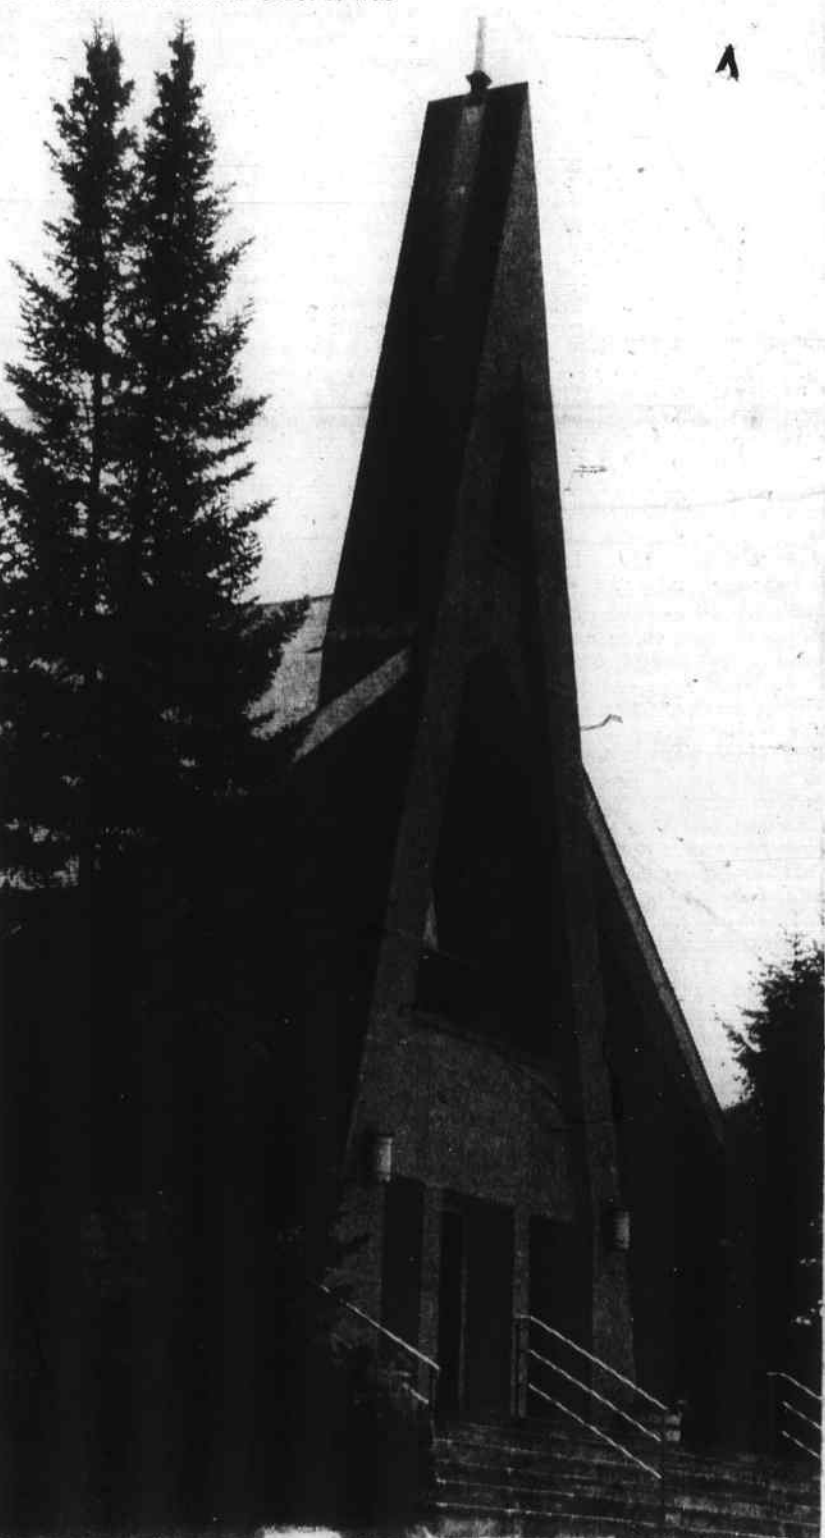

Tent caterpillars would be a much more serious problem if this insect constructed its tents in all of our yard trees, including oaks, maples, birches and pines. The good news is that this pest has a limited preference list, which includes apples, cherries, pears and nut trees. Once in a great while you may see a tent in a maple or birch tree, but this is the rare exception.

The best control strategy is to remove the nests and destroy the caterpillars as soon as they appear. Where the infestation is severe, I have tied a cat tail punk to a long pole, soaked the cat tail in lighter fluid, and burned the nests out. With care, you can use this approach without burning the tree. I would not recommend burning them out unless your trees are about to be totally devoured. The only other effective control I have heard of is spraying your trees weekly beginning the last week of July, with BT (Bacillus Thuringiensis) which is available in most garden centers.

A Tewksbury gardener called the other evening to report that her beet and Swiss chard plantings were nearly wiped out by leaf miners. She was able to identify the culprit by looking through Ortho's giant problem solver reference at a Tewksbury nursery. What, she asks, can she do next year to avoid losing her beets and chard again? I can suggest two approaches; First, you can cover your young plants with a lightweight barrier which will allow sun, air, and rain to get through, while preventing the leaf miner fly from laying eggs on the leaves of the plants. Thin nylon netting, fine screening, or agricultural fleece are all effective barriers. Lay the barrier material directly on the six inch plants in June and seal the edges to the ground with stones or small sticks. Provide lots of extra material so that as the plants grow they won't strain against the covering material.

The other approach that you as an organic gardener can try is a light weekly dusting of your beet and chard plants with a five percent rotenone dust. Use sparingly though, since rotenone can destroy lady bugs and other beneficial insects. Always reapply rotenone (or any other insecticide you may use) immediately after rain.

They make more planes than Boeing

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

The uniqueness of Paul K. Guillow, Inc., has kept them flying at the lead of the toy industry for the 67-years since the company was first started in a Pleasant Street barn.

Guillow's President Al Smith noted just what the uniqueness is when he said, "We build more airplanes than Boeing, McDonald-Douglas and Air Bus combined."

The planes built by Guillows may not carry the payloads or fly as far in Earth miles as those of the bigger companies, however, the flights of fancy they provide are endless.

No matter who you are, especially living in this area of the country, you have probably built a Guillows flying machine at some time in your life.

They range from the simple slip together balsa gliders you bought at the "mom and pop" corner store as a kid to the more complicated plastic and balsa models of Cessna's or Mustangs or today's latest model, the PBY 5a Catalina Flying Boats. Although the larger models such as the PBY's are built for show and not flying, many other models are designed to fly using anything from a rubber band to a miniature gas motor to propel them through the air.

Smith explained the major product of the business is "instant gratification."

Guillows has gone through a lot of changes since it was first started by Paul Guillow in 1925. A walk through the New Salem Street world headquarters is an interesting tour of a business that has seen as much innovation in the time it has taken to build it to where it is today as the models built by the customers.

Guillow, a Wakefield native and graduate of the Wakefield High School Class of 1915, had been a United States Naval Aviator during World War I and had retained his interests in planes after leaving the service.

Guillow started the company, after leaving the employ of the Heywood-Wakefield Company, in a barn at the rear of the family property on Pleasant Street. According to Smith, in those days the kits were a piece of balsa wood with instructions on how to cut out a model plane.

Today's kits include die cut patterns that can be put together along with plastic cowlings and armaments and specially silk screened decals that give the models an air of authenticity.

Smith noted that the kits on sale today range from $4.79 to $52. However, for the cost conscious and not so agile, a simple balsa glider can still be bought at your local convenience store for only 89-cents, a slight increase from the nickel they cost in the 1940's.

The success of the business seemed to be apparent from the start. Guillow had to move his company, then called Nucraft, to a larger location within three months and by 1933 when other companies were in a depression, Guillows was seeking more space in its third location, the site of today's New Salem Street plant.

When they first moved to the site the building was shared with the former Morrison-Skinner screen manufacturing plant. However, the toy company has taken over the whole site.

Among the first products put out by Guillow was a card game called "Lindy" named in honor of the internationally renowned pilot Charles A. Lindbergh. That game was soon bought out by Parker Brothers and Guillow focused on his model planes.

Guillow became quite famous for his models and his knowledge of aeronautical history. He has been credited with writing several books on the subject. Displays of airplanes have been presented in national museums and galleries.

However, Smith noted that a 1968 fire in a storage building at the rear of the plant destroyed much of Guillows early plans and memorabilia.

Attention to detail is a byword at Guillows. Smith noted that it takes about one-year to develop a new model for the production lines and because of this only one or two new models are introduced per-year.

The research on a new model starts in the company's files and goes to the Wakefield Public Library as well as to places such as the Smithsonian Institute.

The airplane manufacturing companies are contacted to provide photographs and sketches of the aircraft. After all this is done, Vice President of Development Tom Barker and draftsman Mark Tennant scale the plane out and build a working model.

Once this model is built the hard part comes. Barker and Tennant have to translate what they have done into a set of instructions that you and I can understand.

"Telling someone else how to do what we have done has been a real knack that Guillows has had over the years," Smith said.

Barker added, "We try to keep the level of knowledge needed, low."

After Barker and Tennant have developed the product then dies have to be made so the balsa wood can be cut down to the many tiny parts needed for the successful construction of the hobbyists model.

Tourism in Mass. rebounding

In the wake of the Tall Ships of Sail Boston '92, Boston and the commonwealth are experiencing an upturn in the revenue-rich travel/tourism business.

While the week-long Tall Ships extravaganza was the most dramatic event so far this year -- and the single most profitable, pouring $500,000 into the local coffers -- industry leaders look back to January and ahead to December as a continuing success story.

Patrick Moscaritolo, president of the Greater Boston Convention and Visitors Bureau points to data compiled by Hospitality Consulting Inc. to buttress the argument that Boston has experienced a turn around from last year's declining hotel business. A projected 8.76 million visitors to Massachusetts S-4

"At The Gables, my mother didn't have to compromise her financial security to ensure her health care." I know that moving wasn't easy for mom. I suppose that I was more worried about her living alone than she was. I just didn't feel secure. What if there was an emergency? So, when she confided to me that the house was becoming a burden, we started to look. The Gables offered the most. She lives there today. Her monthly rental fee covers all of the services and amenities that initially attracted us. There was no entrance or endowment fee, so my mother's financial security was assured. And The Gables' Assisted Living Program will allow my mother to live independently should her health needs change. The Gables was the right move. For both of us.

If you'd like to retire to a luxury community, where health care and financial independence do not preclude one another, we invite you to visit The Gables At Winchester. To arrange your personal tour or receive information, please send us the coupon, or call us at 617-756-1026.

SUMMERTIME FUN - These smiling faces from students of the Creative Arts Summer Art Camp in Reading display sock puppets they made for a future performance. Pictured in front are (l-r) John Sullivan (of Reading), Josh Sims (of Burlington), Becky Honer (of Lynnfield) and Sara Connolly (of Reading). Youngsters from surrounding communities are participating in various programs through August 27. For information, call 942-0538. (Photo by Don Young)

Rock group appears in No. Reading

Good things come to those who wait... and work hard. Just ask members of the Boston based rock group "Last Cry" that will be appearing at Fr. Lane Hall, St. Theresa's Church, 63 Winter St., North Reading on August 15 from 7:30 to 11. Doors open at 7 with ticket sales at the door for $3.

Since signing a long-term contract with Miami, Florida-based MBA Management in January 1991, the young quintet has been intently developing its sound with independent record producer John Fannon, best known for his work and the lead singer, songwriter and guitarist for the '70s rock band "New England."

The long studio hours and sweat are paying off for "Last Cry." The group's first single, "In the Name of Love," will be released in the early fall on Joste Records and a music video will be released simultaneously with the single.

The video is being produced by The Gilmore Group, an award-winning film and TV production company based in Boston. Scenes for the video include sequences shot while recording at Barking Spider Recording Studios, live performances and at several locations around Boston and Cape Cod. Video production will be completed in September and will be available in broadcast and consumer formats.

This fall, they will begin promoting their new record, with a tour of key cities throughout the Northeast.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

WOBURN - Woburn Mayor John W. Rabbitt presided over the singing of "Happy Birthday" and the cutting of the first slices of cake at the largest Teddy Bears' Picnic ever held on the Woburn Public Library lawn.

More than 300 children, parents and bears participated in the perfect weather and enjoyed the cake shaped like a three, five and zero marking Woburn's 350th.

The cake was donated by the Woburn Business Association and Frank Nett of the Donut Kitchen.

STONEHAM - Stoneham Town Administrator Teddy Ryan will draft a warrant article for fall Town Meeting to establish a committee to begin a complete review of the Town Administrator Act.

Written in 1981, the act gives authority to a professional manager to conduct the ongoing work of the town's daily functions. It was reviewed in 1985 and 1987.

According to the "Stoneham Independent," Ryan felt that some Selectmen are unhappy with a town administrator form of government, and that a review is appropriate at this time.

MEDFORD - The Medford High Class of '67 will hold its 25th class reunion on November 27th at the Sheraton Tara in Danvers.

READING - Chosen from a field of 55 candidates, Reading resident Dr. John C. Davis, Superintendent of the Somerville Public Schools since 1988, has been appointed superintendent of the Saudi Arabian International School in Riyadh.

His wife Ann will be employed there as a school nurse.

Dr. Davis is a former administrator of the Copenhagen International School in Denmark and is past chairman and current president-elect of the Committee of American and International Schools Abroad of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. Earlier this year, he was a finalist for the job of Massachusetts Commissioner of Education.

MALDEN - The Malden Catholic Class of '52 will hold its 40th reunion on October 10th at the Sheraton Tara in Danvers.

BURLINGTON - Robert Peters is the new chairman of the Burlington Recycling Committee replacing Christine Monaco. Larry Cohen continues as vice-chair.

The committee has revised the specifications for a curbside pickup program for recyclable goods and hopes to have new, lower bids back by September. Specifications now call for a price based on the tonnage of the town's entire waste stream rather than a specific tonnage of recycled waste.

model kit starts with the cutting down of a balsa wood tree in Ecuador. Smith notes that the trees are plantation grown and are not part of the Brazilian rain forest problem.

According to Smith, many banana plantations will grow the trees in between the banana trees as an extra cash crop. A full grown 60-foot balsa tree only takes about seven years to develop.

Balsa is used because a live tree is about 70 percent water. Smith said that the wood is placed in a kiln for a drying process that takes three days.

After this, it is shipped to Miami where Guillows has a special relationship with a company that cuts the balsa blocks to the various thicknesses needed for the parts.

"Once the wood is shipped to the Wakefield plant it is processed through machines which are almost as old as the plant itself.

Smith said that many of the machines are customized or a specially designed one-of-a-kind machine that only Guillows owns.

According to Smith, a Wakefield native, Frank Hawk, designed at least five of the machines that are used in the manufacturing of the kits. He explained that one of these machines has 16-saw-blades which are used to separate the ribs of wood and yet keep them in one piece.

Another one-of-a-kind machine allows the smaller Guillows' models to have a one-piece wing span.

The wings must have a dihedral angle that allows for flight. Because of the machine that was developed at Guillows the wood can be bent so that the wing does not have to be made in two parts, such as those of other models.

Due to the length of time the company has been in business they find themselves becoming totally self-sustaining on the various parts.

The owners of a company that used to make the injection molded plastic parts had notified Smith's father, the former president of the company, that they wanted to retire.

It was decided that Guillows would buy that company and produce their own parts rather than allow the molds to be sold elsewhere.

Recycling is a byword in this area of the business. Any plastic scrap plastic that is not made into a part, whether through the vacuum process or injection mold process, is recycled to be used as the raw material for the injection mold process.

Smith notes that the recycling works as they are not a large enough purchaser of raw plastic to be able to deal directly with the manufacturers.

According to Smith, Guillows is a world-wide business with markets in most of the free-world countries. As for the future, he hopes to be able to break into the former Iron Curtain countries as soon as they are able to fulfill their necessities and can start seeking relaxation products.

Smith has set a five-year date on that project. In the meantime, he is working on a television campaign, with Wakefield's J.C. Marketing Associates, in hopes of building up a mail order business for the models.

Smith explained that the mail-order would be directed to those areas of the country that may still be to rural to have a hobby shop close by or for those people who might not be able to get out to buy the kits.

Smith notes that he sees many people returning to model plane building and attributes it to those people whomay have built models as a kid and left when other pursuits came along.

Now they might have time on their hands and are looking for a project to work on.

Smith also notes that some parents see models as a way to teach their children how to work with their hands and that there is more to life than Nintendo.

He recalls when he first brought a Balsa kit home to his son, the boy did not know what to do with it.

Many people enjoy the challenge of assembly and Smith notes that the company has kits of varying difficulty.

Starter kits can be put together within a few hours and other kits can take as much as 30 to 50 ours of work.

However, as I sit here and look at my little glider (about 30 seconds to put together) I look forward to hours of fantasy flying.

tors will have come to Boston by the year's end, compared with 8.2 million in 1991. Just under 50 percent, or about 4 million, will have stayed in a hotel. Another 1.81 million will have stayed with friends or relatives and 2.38 million will be day visitors.

Statewide hotel/motel occupancy rates were 62.7 for the first half of this year compared with 60.6 percent last year for a 3.4 percent increase.

Francois L. Nivaud, president of the Massachusetts Lodging Associations, says, "Boston's visitor-hospitality industry is rebounding at a greater rate than the national average, despite the lingering economic troubles in the region."

"Sail Boston," he says, "has been the renaissance of the city's tourism industry, and we look ahead with optimism to the remainder of the year."

"Much of the credit can be attributed to Gov. Weld in his support of public-private enterprise and the state's important campaign to advertise and promote Massachusetts tourism."

Besides Sail Boston, the Bureau credits key conventions for the industry's 1992 success.

The Bureau particularly cites DECworld, the National Science Teachers Convention and the International Seafood Show.

Momentum is expected to continue over the next quarter with Phantom of the Opera at the Wang Center, MacWorld, and conventions by the American Veterinary Medical Association, the American Public Works Association, the American Bakers Association, the American Statistical Association and the National Candy Wholesalers.

The forecast is that the total of 84,000 conventioners are expected to generate more than $18 million in direct spending.

Phantom of the Opera is expected to attract more than 500,000 theater goers who will spend from $1.5 million to $2.5 million over the course of its 15-week run.

Tom Kershaw, president of the Massachusetts Restaurant Association, predicted that members of his group would profit from the theater run and from the increased patronage by the convention visitors.

Kershaw says the meal tax should generate $5 million more in state revenues this year than last.

SENIOR CENTER - The Reading Council on Aging presented a certificate of appreciation to Reading's Parker Middle School Student Council for its leadership this year in many activities involving seniors in the Reading community.

Inspired by the Student Council and the leadership of advisors Bob Olson and Todd Harrison, each Parker homeroom adopted a "grandparent" and earned funds to present him or her with holiday gifts. Students also made sunshine cards on several occasions; created the Chore Chum program; and participated in the annual cribbage tournament between students and seniors.

of their health, particularly their cardiovascular health. By age 55, a woman is more likely to die of cardiovascular disease than any other cause. Risk factors include a family history of heart disease, smoking, diabetes, high cholesterol, high blood pressure and obesity.

Dr. Tierney urges women who are approaching menopause to do all they can to preserve their good health. "I encourage all women to talk with their physician and look ahead with optimism. For many of them, the best years of their lives lie ahead," said Dr. Tierney.

Dr. Tierney's office is located at 350 Main Street in Malden.

Discussion on menopause

The silence surrounding menopause has finally begun to break, as more and more women discuss their experiences openly. Timothy Tierney, M.D., a family practitioner affiliated with Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, encourages frank discussion about menopause.

"Women should feel free to speak candidly with their physicians about the changes they are experiencing," said Dr. Tierney. "Thanks to ongoing research and discussion, physicians can provide more helpful information and treatments than ever before." At a recent lecture sponsored by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and the Malden Department of Public Health, Dr. Tierney shared the latest research and information about menopause with an audience of approximately 50 women.

Menopause is the stage in a woman's life when her menstrual periods cease. As the time of menopause approaches, the ovaries decrease production of the hormone estrogen until menstrual periods become irregular and finally stop entirely. Most women experience menopause between the ages of 48 and 52. Other women experience menopause several years earlier or later.

"This transition is uneventful for some women, but others experience uncomfortable symptoms, including hot flashes, night sweats, insomnia, incontinence, bloating, vaginal dryness, heat palpitations, mood swings, migraines and memory lapses," said Dr. Tierney. "Some women have several symptoms while some have none."

It is the unpredictable nature of menopause that leaves many women frustrated. One symptom that may be particularly uncomfortable or worrisome is irregular or heavy bleeding.

WOODCARVERS CELEBRATE AT STRAWBERRY BANKE

There are some things that time just can't effect and one of those things is the historic art form of woodcarving. A significant historic aspect of architecture and craft, Strawberry Banke Museum would like to celebrate woodcarving at the Second Annual Woodcarver's Exhibition on Sunday, August 16.

Visitors to Strawberry Banke will be able to see more than 35 woodcarvers who will be demonstrating their craft at this day-long exhibition. A wide variety of woodcarving will be on display including decoy carving, relief carving, and wood sculpture. Visitors will also be able to see live demonstrations of traditional woodcarvings and various woodcarving techniques, as well as, tour Strawberry Banke's historic houses, some of them famous for interior and exterior carvings.

Woodcarver's Day will begin at 10 a.m. when the museum opens. Admission for the museum is $9 for adults, $8 for seniors, $7 for teens, $5 for youths, and free for those under six years old.

Admission for those visitors who wish just to see the Woodcarving Exhibition will be $4.

Strawbery Banke, located in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, is a 10-acre, 42-building, nonprofit, historic, waterfront neighborhood museum reflecting 350 years of social and architectural history through furnished homes, exhibitions, traditional crafts, period gardens and special events. For more information, please call (603) 433-1100.

PRENATAL/POSTPARTUM AT WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

Winchester Hospital offers an exercise program to prepare women for the changes which occur before, during and after childbirth. The classes are designed to enhance a woman's pregnancy and recovery by teaching toning exercises and relaxation techniques.

"A CELEBRATION OF WOMEN" ON EXHIBIT

"Dedications: A Celebration of American Women," a traveling quilt exhibit that honors women who have made a difference, will be on exhibit in the Great Hall of the Boston Public Library in Copley Square through August 24.

To celebrate its 115th anniversary, McCall's invited readers to contribute quilted squares dedicated to women whose lives held special meaning to them. The magazine received 650 squares from readers around the country from which 13 quilts were created, including one grand quilt titled, "Symbols of Women in the 20th Century," and 12 smaller themed quilts including: "Family Ties," "Mothers Are Miracles," "Friends Forever," "Women Who Have Changed the World," "A Tribute to Teachers," "A Celebration of Sisterhood," and "A Grandmother's Loving Lessons."

The exhibit is free and open to the public and will be on display in the Great Hall of the Central Library Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, please contact the Boston Public Library at (617) 536-5400, Ext. 336.

TV PERSONALITIES HELP RAISE FUNDS

Ipswich Country Club will be the setting for the upcoming "Stone Zoo Celebrity Golf Challenge." Bob Lobel and Mike Macklin of WBZ-TV will square off against Sean McDonough and Bob Montgomery of TV-38 on Tuesday, August 25 at noon. They will play a skins format with all the proceeds to benefit Stone Zoo and the ongoing renovation projects.

"We are very excited about televising this event on Sports Channel," said Ron Gailuccio of Horizon Productions, "and are looking forward to a very exciting golf match with these well-known celebrities plus a fun day for all the spectators." The event will be televised in a one hour program to be aired on Sports Channel.

Tickets are available for spectators and the $5 donation will also include a reception following the event and an opportunity to see the Ipswich Country Club.

For sponsorship or ticket information, call Friends of Stone Zoo at (617) 438-9488 and leave a message.

STATE SPONSORED BOWHUNTING SEMINAR

A free Bowhunting Seminar will be held for eight hours on August 23 at the Woburn Sportsman's Association, Middlesex Turnpike, Bedford. The class starts at 8 a.m. Persons must pre-register. Call Tom at (508) 667-6891 or Paul at (508) 663-4050.

Those attending are asked to bring bows and arrows if they have them. Attendance is open to adult men and women, as well as minors over 10 years of age with parental permission.

These seminars are offered at several locations throughout the state by the Massachusetts Department of Fisheries, Wildlife & Environmental Law Enforcement in cooperation with the International Bowhunter Education Foundation. The program is presented by skilled bowhunters for both the experienced and beginning hunter. Among the topics covered will be the selection of equipment, safety, game preparation, and hunting methods, including tracking.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1992-PAGE S-5

Each course graduate receives a state Bowhunting Certificate. These Massachusetts courses are honored by other U.S. states and Canadian provinces which require such training of archery hunters. For this reason, many experienced sportsmen planning hunting trips to states, such as Connecticut, Rhode Island, or New York, attend these sessions.

JOHNNY RIVERS HEADLINES OLDIES SATURDAY NIGHT

Johnny Rivers, who in 1966 after a string of Top 10 hits with other people's songs, topped the charts with his own composition "Poor Side of Town," headlines Oldies-103 Free Saturday Night Oldies Concert on Boston's City Hall Plaza, August 15th at 7 p.m.

New York born Johnny Rivers was raised in the jazz and blues state of Louisiana, growing up under the influence of artists like Fats Domino, who legend has it, entertained at Rivers' junior high school.

LIFESAVING TECHNIQUES TAUGHT IN CPR

Winchester Hospital's Education Department offers cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, classes to the community. These classes teach participants how to perform lifesaving CPR and the Heimlich maneuver; a technique used to dislodge foreign material from the breathing passages.

Instructors demonstrate CPR through mannequin practice and a special film presentation. Participants who have successfully completed the course will receive a one-year certificate from the American Heart Association.

This CPR course will be offered in two part classes from 6 to 10 p.m. on August 17th and 19th at the Winchester Hospital Health Promotion Center at 23 Warren Ave. in Woburn.

Businesses and organizations may call the hospital's Education Department to schedule classes for members or employees. For price information, call Winchester Hospital at (617) 756-2220.

BUNKER HILL FALL REGISTRATION

Bunker Hill Community College is still accepting applications for full and part-time study, days, evenings and Saturdays for the Fall 1992 semester. Information sessions are held every Monday and Wednesday, 10 a.m. and noon, in the main lobby for interested students. Degree and certificate program requirements, the admissions procedure, financial aid applications and career counseling are all covered in the information sessions which are open to the public.

BYFIELD ARTIST RETURNS TO EXHIBIT

After a two year exhibition hiatus, Byfield resident, Ruthanne Arbeit, returns to exhibit in Newburyport at the Sam Sargent Gallery. Ms. Arbeit has been intensely concentrating on her artwork since her last one person show, "Scenes and Schemes" at this gallery. She has produced a new series of landscapes depicting the unique moods and feelings of the local marshes and countryside. Her ceramic sculpture has evolved into more sophisticated fauna and flora forms.

The artist is a graduate of Adelphi University where she received a B.S. degree, Rhode Island School of Design where she obtained a B.F.A. in sculpture, and Syracuse University where she earned a M.F.A. in sculpture.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

The Burlington School Committee recently recognized Pine Glen first grade teacher Carol Jordan and fourth grade teacher Ann Lloyd - and nine others - for excellence in teaching.

Jordan and Lloyd piloted a year-long writer's workshop for their 40 students and capped off the year with an author's day spotlighting those students who read their works to the many parents who came to hear them.

In a meeting coordinated by parent and nurse Mary Rogers, Stoneham's Colonial Park School parents have met with Michael Azevedo of the American Red Cross to learn more about AIDS and the HIV virus.

The evening included a video, lecture and open discussion, all designed to develop ground support for AIDS, drug awareness and sexual education in the schools. Parents agreed that the way to teach elementary children about AIDS is to educate them - not to traumatize them with fear.

For more information, call the American Red Cross Hot Line at 1-800-223-7849.

Lynnfield High debate coach Phillip C. Joyce planned a "Debate, Discussion and Persuasive Technique Camp" for students completing grades six through 12 and adults, to run at Lynnfield Middle School during the summer.

The camp was designed for those who desired better grades, higher academic achievement, and greater social influence and included 28 easy ways to reason, learning to make logical decisions, techniques for self-confidence and mental concentration, and logic games.

Thanks to a donation from the Wakefield-Lynnfield Kiwanis Club in memory of member Elliott Klasky who was very active in children's issues, the Wakefield School Department will be able to purchase educational computer software for children with special needs. Current Kiwanis president is J. Kevin Lally.

The Melrose School Committee has recommended a stipend of $1800 each to Joseph Messina and Earl Beshong, the former directors of fine arts and occupational education - who continued to perform the duties of department directors even after they were demoted.

The money for the stipends was part of the current school budget.

North Reading fourth grade teacher Lisa Durrell was recently honored by Governor William Weld for excellence in teaching.

J.T. Hood School Principal Paul Perry submitted Durrell's name and qualifications for the 1992 Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching. She is one of three in the state selected for the award.

Durrell has presented a series of math workshops to North Reading teachers and is involved in the introduction of math manipulatives throughout Hood. She believes in the hands-on approach to understanding math which exposes students to concrete concepts in their own terms.

Durrell has worked with third grade teacher Nancy Aldrich to present this material to Hood students.

Kathleen Conway is the new principal of Wilmington's Woburn Street School, replacing Dolores Silva who has retired.

Conway was the Program Manager of the School of the Future in Cambridge and Acting Principal of the Agassiz School, also in Cambridge.

A Horace Mann teacher, she comes with a strong background in curriculum, and elementary through middle level schools. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree, with a concentration in early childhood education from Leslie College and a master's from Harvard University in administrative planning and social policy.

Among the finalists for the position, which attracted 133 applicants, were James Dumas, Paul Kellogg and Ron Eckel who withdrew his name.

Elvis in the early days

Sun Studio cradle of Rock 'n' Roll

In a one-story brick building on Union Avenue in Memphis, Tennessee, record producer and music lover Sam Phillips set up Sun Studio in the 1950's, creating a musical kingdom of rock 'n' roll. Through his door, artists like Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis, B.B. King, Rufus Thomas, Howlin' Wolf, Muddy Waters, Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash and Roy Orbison launched their recording careers. Of all the stars nurtured in Sam's studio, it is probably the memory of Elvis Presley, the legendary king of rock 'n' roll, that continues to draw tourists to the place where his reign began.

"In June of 1953, Elvis came in to record a couple of songs," said Joe Keene, vice president of Sun Studio and Sun Cafe. "Presley was a shy, 18-year-old, grease-stained mechanic when he walked through the door and said he wanted to record a song for his mamma. Sam wasn't there at the time and Marion Kisker, who ran the studio, recorded Elvis. It cost him $4 and he sang My Happiness and That's When Heartaches Begin. To Marion he was 'that kid with the side burns,' but she introduced him to Sam Phillips the next time he came in to make another recording," Keene explained.

The rest, as they say, is music history. Sam Phillips, created Sun Records in 1952 and was urgently trying to capture something new - "a fusion of the black and white music strains of the Mississippi Delta culture. For Sam, Elvis's strong, southern voice became the vehicle to launch a new pop music that would rock the foundations of the music world. Within a few days of meeting Sam, Elvis's version of That's All Right Momma hit the airways over WHBQ's "Red Hot and Blue Radio Show."

"Sam gave Elvis's record to Dewey Phillips and Dewey played it with no more introduction than 'I'm going' to cut loose this new song,'" remarked Joe Keene. "Elvis's career was launched as hundreds of people called the station to request the song over and over again. In fact, Dewey played it 11 times in three hours and played the flip side, too," said Keene.

The tours are conducted every day on the half hour, and during the tours the very walls of Sun Studio seem to talk as visitors listen to the music and conversations of the artists who recorded their songs in the 1950s. Johnny Cash wails Folsom Prison Blues, Jerry Lee Lewis howls Great Balls of Fire and Carl Perkins plunks out Blue Suede Shoes as the sounds of the past invade the room at the tour guide's direction.

"Was it the way Sam Phillips mixed the sound on tape that made the music special?" a visitor asked.

"Maybe; and the way the white tiles held and threw back the notes," the tour guide replied.

Whatever the technique, the recordings produced at Sun Studio's small, nondescript room were known for their live sound. Always, the hits matched the live performances of the artists, much to the delight of fans. In fact, the studio is still in demand and at night is used as a 24-track studio by such modern artists as U2, Bonnie Raitt and Johnny Rivers.

Next door to the studio is the Sun Studio Cafe where the fare is typically 1950s food.

"Foods like hamburgers, barbecue, milk shakes, chili dogs, and Classic Coke in glass bottles are offered here," said Joe Keene. "This is definitely not a health food restaurant," he added with a laugh.

Sun Studio is located at 706 Union Avenue not far from Beale Street, Graceland and Memphis' newest downtown attractions: The Pyramid, The National Civil Rights Museum and The Wonders Exhibition. For more information on Sun Studio and Memphis, contact the TN Dept. of Tourist Development, Rm. T, P.O. Box 23170, Nashville, TN 37202.

Tips for good health

YES, GARLIC IS GOOD FOR THE HEART

A new study confirms the old European belief that garlic is good for the heart. Tulane University researchers found that total cholesterol levels dropped 6% and low-density lipoprotein cholesterol fell 11% in patients given garlic tablets for 12 weeks. The cholesterol-lowering effects of garlic are primarily associated with a component called alliin, which is destroyed in cooking.

VITAMIN C PROTECTS AGAINST ULTRAVIOLET RAYS

A new vitamin C skin cream is expected to join sunscreens as an effective defense against ultraviolet A and B radiation. The cream, now awaiting FDA approval, seeps into the skin and can't be washed or rubbed off by water, exercise, clothing or makeup. It protects for up to three days and seems safe for children and adults.

"The Unknown" Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn
"The Unforgiven" Starring Clint Eastwood, Gene Hackman, Morgan Freeman, Richard Harris. Directed and produced by Clint Eastwood. Written by David Webb Peoples. Rated R.

"The Unforgiven" is as close to poetry as you are ever likely to encounter in a movie. An unapologetically violent story, it does nothing to glorify savagery not does it debate the people who commit harsh acts. Life is full of dichotomy, and so is this amazing film.

Director/producer Clint Eastwood reportedly bought the script seven years ago and held on to it until he was old enough to convincingly play weathered pig farmer Bill Munny. A one-time outlaw and recovered alcoholic, Munny was reformed by the love of a good woman who died young and left him with two children to raise. When a brash, near-sighted youngster rides up to his hard-scrabble farm, Munny stops wrestling with infected pigs long enough to listen to "The Schofield Kid" (Jaimz Woolvett).

The Kid spits out a tale of a thousand dollar reward offered by a bunch of prostitutes for the deaths of two men who sliced up one of the women. Though the woman was brutally disfigured for life, the town sheriff, Little Bill Daggett (Gene Hackman) merely fined the perpetrators seven ponies, to be paid to her pimp. The victim is offered neither restitution nor justice.

Telling himself he needs the reward money for his children, Munny joins the Kid in going after these cowboys. He brings along his former partner, played by Morgan Freeman.

This would seem a straight-forward story, but there is nothing simple about it. The one act of violence against a woman dominates into a tragedy that forever changes the small town inhabitants of Big Whiskey. Not so much a study of violence, this is a study of the people who know there really is no glory in killing.

Eastwood gives the performance of his career as a man haunted by the ghosts of his victims, but does not walk away from a vicious destiny. Though Munny tells himself he's changed, it takes little convincing to make a bounty hunter out of him. Yet it is his partner who seems less haunted, and more removed from his past. Even more intriguing is Hackman's sheriff, a bully who bloodies strangers into respecting local ordinances. An amiable guy when not provoked, Daggett turns out to be the meanest in the bunch, but sleeps the best at night because the law is on his side.

There is nothing about this film that is not intricate and thoughtful. The silver-tongued English Bob (Richard Harris) tells the world of his might as a gunslinger through the help of a dimstore novelist (Saul Rubinek). But there's less to English Bob than meets the eye, just as there is more to Munny. All the characters are complex and there are no neat answers. Not for the women who refuse to accept violence but generate more, or the lawman who fights criminal acts with more of his own, or the pig farmer who is really a gunslinger.

Let's hope director Eastwood cops an Oscar nomination for having captured the beauty and harshness of the last few years the West was still wild. And for capturing the complexity of the human soul.

"Raising Cain" Starring John Lithgow, Lolita Davidovich, Steven Bauer. Directed and written by Brian De Palma. Produced by Gale Anne Hurd.

There is something very wrong with the protagonist in writer/director Brian De Palma's thriller, "Raising Cain." The same can be said of the movie.

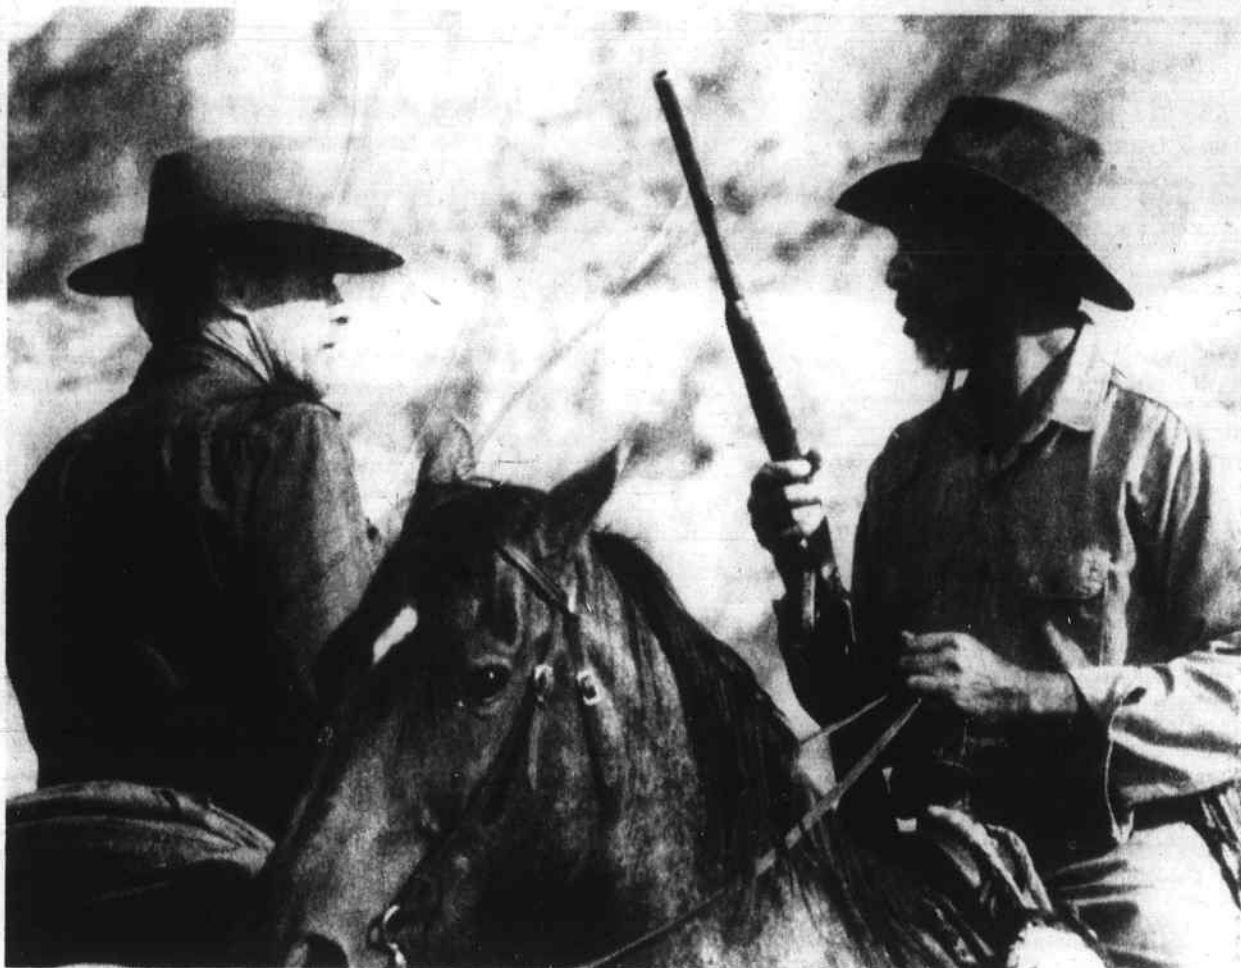

John Lithgow plays a child psychologist, Dr. Carter Nix, who stepped off the work-track and onto the daddy track to care for his young daughter. They are supported by his wife (Lolita Davidovich), a doctor who thinks Carter is becoming obsessed with their child. Little does she know he's obsessed with other people's kids too, as Carter has been rounding up the neighborhood children and stashing them in the local no-tell motel. Says he needs a control group for some experiments he and his father plan to carry out.

The major setback here is that Carter's dad, also a child psychologist, died a suicide 15 years earlier following a scandal involving the buying of babies. But by the time we see Carter's father, we aren't sure if he is real or a manifestation of Carter's troubled mind, like his twin brother Cain.

There is quite a lot in this movie that falls into the Is It Real? category. From red herrings to gory dream sequences, De Palma pulls every trick in the book. The film is so stylized and over the top that it quickly crosses the line from scary to parody. Though meant as a thriller with a few laughs thrown in for relief, it's not hard to see the black humor is quite unintentional. And derisive laughter is never very satisfying.

The plot begins to fracture as quickly as Carter's psyche once he tries to frame his wife's lover (Steven Bauer) for murders committed under the influences of Carter's evil alter ego, Cain. Lithgow, usually such a fine actor, is too much here. He may have had fun with the role, but he's not frightening. There is no internalization of his psychosis, so he doesn't deliver the creepy performance this movie desperately needed. Not that it matters much when the director tries to trick us into believing in a plot that isn't there.

If anything, this flick may leave us feeling a little embarrassed for De Palma, who didn't label "Raising Cain" a dark comedy until test audiences laughed at it. In his desperation to recover from the box office failures of "The Bonfire of the Vanities" and "Casualties of War," De Palma seems to have lost touch with his ability to entertain. Some of his earlier flicks, like "Carrie," "Body Double" or the bloated "Scarface" may not have been classics, but they kept us interested. "Raising Cain" is more likely to interest you in the time, your popcorn or the exit door. Rated R.

CLINT EASTWOOD AS WILLIAM MUNNY and Morgan Freeman as Ned Logan set off on a quest of vengeance in "Unforgiven," the gripping story of a man caught between a promise and revenge. Gene Hackman and Richard Harris also star in the Malpasco Production for Warner Bros. release.

Short Takes

Buffy the Vampire Slayer puts a Valley Girl hot on the trail of the Undead in Beverly Hills. All high concept and no thought, this flick is humorous in a juvenile manner, even if the joke wears thin pretty quickly. Blonde, perky Kristy Swanson is perfect as the mall doll turned slayer, and Donald Sutherland adds a much needed touch of class. Rated PG-13.

Death Becomes Her is a boffo comedy about the aging process, revenge and infidelity. Meryl Streep is a mediocre actress obsessed with staying young. Isabella Rossellini is the vamp who gives her immortality - but at a high price. The eye popping special effects dominate the last half of the film, losing alcoholic Bruce Willis and vengeful Goldie Hawn in the shuffle. Still, it's fast-paced fun with great performances from all involved. Rated PG-13.

Mom and Dad Save the World is an embarrassing "comedy" starring Jon Lovitz as a crazed alien who abducts Teri Garr and Jeffrey Jones to the planet Spengo. Colorful and cartoonish, the sets make you think of the low budget, sci fi flicks of the fifties. But the sets can't save this movie any more than mom and dad could. Rated PG.

A Stranger Among Us stars Melanie Griffith as a tough detective who goes undercover in a Hassidic community to find a killer. Okay, so it lifts a lot from "Witness," but Griffith is a delight as she learns to soften her stance. Eric Thal is every bit her equal as the son of a religious leader who learns to admire her quick mind and survival instincts. Though this is a crime film, characterization is its most winning trait. Rated PG-13.

up and the cast is top notch, but this becomes just a classy horror flick with pretensions of grandeur. Although there are some palpable thrills in this picture, thanks to director Jonathan Kaplan, the plot was based in from a made-for-TV movie. Rated R. ***

Batman Returns is a huge improvement over director Tim Burton's last comic book caper. Gotham City is done up in Fascist architecture, Michael Keaton's Batman and Michelle Pfeiffer's Catwoman suffer from split personalities and The Penguin (Danny DeVito) just needs a hug. The plot is meandering and Christopher Walken's energy vampire just sort of drops out of sight, but not before we've had a real Bat treat. Rated PG-13.  1/2

Housesitter is an update of the kind of screwball comedy where nothing much has to make sense, as long as it's funny. Goldie Hawn plays a consummate liar who pushes her way into Steve Martin's lonely life. Hawn just moves into Martin's empty house, the one he built for Dana Delany before she dumped him. Hawn then tells everyone, including Martin's folks, that they are married. You can connect the dots from there. This is fun, frothy, and lighter than air. Rated PG.  1/2

Patriot Games is the lackluster sequel to "Hunt for Red October," with Harrison Ford playing the role originated by Alec Baldwin. Harrison, now retired, steps into his old job at the CIA when his family is targeted by a rogue IRA terrorist. An outrageously implausible plot and two-dimensional characters make for a thriller that is more tepid than taut. This summer "Blockbuster" is more likely to produce a yawn than keep you on the edge of your seat. Rated R. **

Boomerang stars Eddie Murphy as a womanizing ad exec who learns about sincerity from Halle Berry after he meets his libidinous match in Robin Givens. Murphy has toned down a lot and there is actually some warmth in his performance, especially in the smaller scenes. But this battle of the sexes is more than a little crass and not particularly funny. Rated R. **

Unlawful Entry stars Kurt Russell as a night club owner whose sexy school teacher wife, Madeleine Stowe, has become the fatal obsession of a demented cop, Ray Liotta. It's an interesting set-

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

The doctor told Jimmy Quinno of the Woburn Elks that horseback riding is great for weight reduction. After three weeks, Jimmy found out that it was true. The horse lost 25 pounds...Kathy didn't do any better. She went on a three week weight reducing diet and lost 21 days.

My cousin, Dennis Tully, is going to be a politician. He walked into a card shop in Reading on Valentine's Day and asked Peggy, "Do you have any Valentines that say, 'My love is for only you?'" "Yes," the pretty saleslady said, "They are right here." "Good," Dennis replied, "I need six of them, please."

The greatest invention since time began was not (as far as I'm concerned) the wheel. I know it became an important cog in our way of life. It revolves on almost everything as it makes traveling easier, moves commodities efficiently and makes our daily work less laborious. But, all these wonderful benefits become useless to people who don't feel well. So, anything that brings strength, vim and vigor to a person's life must be a "greater" invention than the wheel. And that folks is "Dancing!"

Ponce de Leon looked for the Fountain of Youth in Florida and many other places but he looked for it in vain. He could have found it, where it still is today -- on every dance hall floor in the world. So, let's go folks, dancing hasn't any age barriers. It only requires the willingness to share the "joy of living" with friends. I'm not a good writer, but I love to write. I'm not a good singer, but I love to sing and I'm not a Fred Astaire on the dance floor but every Wednesday and Saturday night I would be dancing up a storm at either the old Spanish Gables, Kimball's Starlight, State Ballroom, The Commodore in Lowell or Mosley's on the Charles. That was years ago, presently you will probably see me every Friday and Saturday night at the Wonderland Ballroom in Revere.

I asked Joe Altavesta if any big men were born in Woburn. Joe smiled and said, "As far as I know only small babies were born here!"...The great John L. Sullivan personified in my friend, Bill McGarr. I'm happy to extend my hand and say to you, "Shake the hand that shook the hand of the great Bill McGarr" and I really mean it folks...There are retirement homes for mailmen who have "lost their zip," plumbers with "wrenched elbows," electricians who have "lost their spark," cooks who have gone "stir crazy," laundry workers who have "lost their starch" and a "padded room" for those who write jokes, puns and quips like these.

Personality Winners: Betty Bailey, Marion Young, Mary Cail, Cathy Ritchie and Mary Pagano, all of Melrose; Kevin Murphy, Paul Crowley, Eddie Costello, Neil Gaita and Susan Bicchieri, all of Medford; William C. Thomson, Anthony R. DiPietro, Mayor Edwin Lucey, Anthony Rizzo, Victor MeJias and Allen Incollingo, all of Malden; Fire Captain Dave Harlo, Tamiko H. Kido, Penny Richards, Jen Baldwin, Theresa Henchey, Bobbie Emerson and Cynthia Miller, all of North Reading;

State Police H Troop, Sgt. Tom Rourke, Det. George McCurtin, Troopers James Mahoney and Kevin Pool, all of Lynnfield; Elaine L. Webb, Stephen R. Puleo, Suzanne M. Morgan, Robert M. Kennedy and Kenneth W. Lawrence, all of Reading; Dale T. Newman, Bill E. Neifert, Christopher J. Murphy, Donna M. Hollywood, Thomas Dolan and Carole A. Buhner, all of Woburn; Adele L. Traniello, Winfield M. Swarr, Maura A. Sullivan, Stivanthy C. Srikanthan, Michael A. Smith, all of Winchester; Rachelle M. Beaudet, Anthony P. Biscardi, Lee Fuller, Kathleen DaSilva, Carol E. Dillingham, all of Burlington; Hilbert Nicholson, Lillian Bayle, Gertrude Qualters, Catherine Joyce and Lauren M. Alterio, all of Wakefield.

Also, Rosemary Trask, Bee Russo, Amy Patmos, Susan Fulchino, Selectman James Juliano, all of Stoneham; Kevin Williams, Thomas Thorton, Kimberly Reitchel, John Pepe, Timothy Curran, Joseph Ruggiero, Kimberly Sheehan, all of Wilmington; Gina Bernard, Dennis Boudreau, Kelly Brooks, Patrick Brooks, and Kathryn Freeman, all of Tewksbury.

Fr. George Pire said, "It's better to get one little apple tree well planted than a thousand trees in a dream orchard."...A Go-Getter is a person who gets in behind you in a revolving door and comes out ahead of you...Adolescence is a time of rapid change. Between the ages of 12 and 17, parents age as much as 20 years.

My Aunt Nora just told me, "Chipper, you're a riddle that no one can figure out." Well folks, here's a riddle that's hard to figure out too, so the answer will be somewhere in Woodchips. There are two books, Volume I and Volume II, each contains ten pages. They are standing up on a shelf in proper order. A bookworm is on page 1 of Volume I and it takes it one minute to eat through a page, or cover. How long will it take the bookworm to get on page ten of Volume II?...Wayne and Diane Higden of Burlington told me, "Our three children, Nicole, Craig and Todd, are at the perfect age - they are too old to cry at night and too young to borrow the car...The answer to the Bookworm Riddle is "Two Minutes."

Folks, suppose one day we took an axe and cut the parlor wall, then tore up potted plants and ruined them, roots and all. What if we threw paper cups, trash and food scraps on the floor

-- "we" would be doing in our homes what "some" do outdoors.

Richie Hamel of Winchester asked me, "Chipper, how is your new secretary?" "She's wonderful," I replied, "except for her punctuation." "I know what you mean," Richie said, "Mine is always late, too."...I wrote in Woodchips that I had to have my 11 year old Yellow Labrador, Blondie, put to sleep (she couldn't walk anymore because of arthritis). I said, "Kathy and I are senior citizens but we are not ashamed to say we cried for two days." Well folks, Kathy and I received ten letters from readers who told us they understood how we feel. "Thank you."

Some people, when they are wrong, try to lay the blame on someone else. When my sister, Maureen, heard a terrible commotion she shouted, "Dennis, stop pulling the cat's tail!" "I'm not pulling the cat's tail," Dennis said, "I'm standing on it and he's the one that's doing the pulling!"...I don't know why some people climb mountains, swim the English Channel or run the Boston Marathon. You could ask me, "Why do you write Woodchips?" Some weeks, I could truthfully answer, "I really don't know." Then I receive a letter from Henry Perkins or a phone call from George Gould telling me how some Chip was just the lift, laugh or "groan" they needed to make their day a little brighter. Then, I know why I write Woodchips.

Jimmy Quinno of Woburn is 17 around the neck, 44 around the waist and 108 around the golf course...Paul Simon said, "I drink because of this cold - I've had it for 37 years."...The appetizer in a German restaurant was terrible but the "Wurst" was yet to come.

Folks, the Tall Ships sailed into Boston Harbor and the following "Dreamboats" sailed majestically into this column: Kristine Doucette, North Reading; Laura Conti, Wilmington; Caroline Sullivan, Stoneham; Mary Anne Laurentano, Medford; Mary C. Casy, Malden; Kim Shea, Woburn; Suzanne Geary, Lynnfield; Joanne Rappa, Saugus; Charlene MacCurtin, Reading; Michelle Fleming, Winchester; Nicole Higden, Burlington; Maureen McGurn, Tewksbury; Judy Tenaglia, Melrose; and Kathy Brennan, Wakefield.

Super Star is Jimmy Beane of North Reading.

Show them all our best moves.

Learn the steps that dazzle and delight! It's easy, fun and fast. Our trained instructors can give you the confidence to start meeting new people, fun people.

Call now and start moving in all the right circles.
